WIRE BRIEFS

Ferry Needs Repairs

VANCOUVER (CP)—The Princess of Vancouver, latest of the CPR car ferries on the west coast, may be laid up after the holiday weekend for engine repair. Tiny cracks were found in the upper half of the crank case of one engine during annual inspection last weekend.

Shepilov in Athens

ATHENS, Greece (Reuters)—Russian Foreign Minister Dmitri Shepilov arrived here from Beirut today for what a Greek government spokesman called "very important talks."

Bomb American's Car

NICOSIA, Cyprus (AP)—A home-made bomb exploded here today in the gasoline tank of an automobile owned by an American. No one was hurt and damage was slight.

Former Actor Dies

VANCOUVER (CP)—John Joseph Atherton, customs examiner for the port of Vancouver, founder of the weekly newspaper, Creston, B.C., "Review," and former actor, died in Shaughnessy Military Hospital here Wednesday. He was 85.

Sudan Break-Up

KHARTOUM, The Sudan (CP)—Eleven National Unionist party members of the Sudanese Parliament broke away Tuesday night to join the newly formed People's Democratic party. Observers said the coalition government of Ismail el Azhari is expected to fall within the next 10 days.

Diesel Firemen Not Needed, Says Fraine

OTTAWA (CP)—J. N. Fraine of Toronto, general manager of the CPR's eastern Canada operations, said today he neither wants nor needs firemen on CPR diesel freight locomotives. They serve no useful purpose, he told a three-man conciliation board attempting to settle a wage dispute between the company and the Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen and Enginemen.

The union, which has warned it will launch a countrywide strike if the CPR eliminates the fireman's job, is demanding a 25-cent wage boost and other benefits for the 3,800 firemen employed by the CPR. The CPR wants to eliminate these employees from freight and yard service and reduce their pay by about one-half on passenger service.

READY TO TALK 'LIBERATION'

Chou Urges Nationalists To Return to Red China

PEIPING (Reuters)—Chou Enlai, Chinese Communist premier, today offered to discuss with the Formosa Nationalist authorities "steps and conditions for the peaceful liberation" of the island.

The Chinese Communist premier was reviewing the world situation in a speech to the National Peoples Congress. He touched on colonialism, the Cold War, United States policy and relations between East and West.

Chou said his government repeatedly had pointed out there were two possible ways for the Chinese people to "liberate" Formosa—by war or by peaceful means—and that the Chinese people would seek to use peaceful means as far as possible.

"Since we issued the slogan of striving to liberate Taiwan (Formosa) by peaceful means, many military and political personnel in Taiwan and abroad have expressed their patriotic desires."

"We believe that those who wish to promote the peaceful liberation of Taiwan and the complete unification of our motherland will grow in number from day to day. This is an inexorable trend," Chou said. Chou said he hoped the Chinese Nationalists on Formosa would send representatives to Peiping or other appropriate places to begin talks on the Formosa question.

Chou assured all Kuomintang military and political personnel on Taiwan, whose families were on the mainland, they could communicate with their relatives and friends, and added: "They can also return to the mainland for short visits to their relatives and friends. We are prepared to give them all kinds of facilities and assistance."

If responsible officials on Formosa had doubts "they can send people to the mainland to find out the situation. We guarantee them freedom of movement in coming and going."

Turning to the international situation, Chou said the cold war had become increasingly unpopular in the last year. Great progress had been made in increasing understanding between countries. "Although the United States is still unwilling to abandon its cold war policy, the great majority of nations believe that peaceful co-existence is not only necessary but possible," he said.

Negotiations between top union and industry representatives all but collapsed Wednesday night and each side accused the other of forcing a crisis upon the nation. Both sides rejected proposals for postponing the strike.

A total of 56 "back benchers"—normally solid supporters of the government leaders but who take an inactive role in the House of Commons—attended the meeting. This would be enough to topple Eden if they voted with the Labor party on the Cyprus issue.

A significant development was the presence, by invitation, of the rebels, of Edward Heath, chief government whip in the House. He listened in silence to one and one-half hours of stormy protest against the Eden plan.

At 1 a.m., U.S. Steel's giant plant at Gary, Ind., the world's largest steel installation, began cooling its furnaces. U.S. Steel ordered its plants in the Pittsburgh area to start shutting down later today.

Bethlehem Steel, which with U.S. Steel produces one-half the nation's annual steel output of 128,000,000 tons, also ordered its plants to begin the shutdown process today and other companies said they would follow suit according to local conditions.

Since it takes three days to cool furnaces and two weeks to heat them up again, at least 1,000,000 tons production will be lost even if the strike is averted before Saturday midnight, when the union's contract expires.

Alert Pilot's Tip Brings Rescue to 3

Clung Four Hours To Capsized Boat In Active Pass Area

VANCOUVER (CP)—Two men clung for four hours to their overturned fishboat near Active Pass today before they were rescued by an RCAF amphibian plane. Just as they were saved, the 46-foot boat sank under them.

A third man managed to get into a tiny dinghy, without caps, when the Im Alone III overturned in Georgia Strait, 40 miles southwest of here. He was picked up by the tug River Ace.

Those rescued were Norman Ryall, 43, owner of the Im Alone III, Ron R. Innas, and engineer Stewart Doig.

SPOTTED FROM AIR

The trio probably owe their lives to the alertness of Trans-Canada Air Lines pilot Captain E. L. Buchanan who spotted Ryall and Innas clinging to the overturned boat while on a dawn flight from Victoria to Vancouver.

Capt. Buchanan radioed news of the fishermen's plight a few minutes after the boat put out a distress call. It was bound from Tofino to Vancouver with a load of crab. The River-Ace was diverted to the scene and picked up Doig.

CHOPPY SEA

Before the tug could reach the overturned fishboat, an RCAF Canoe, piloted by Lt. Lt. Andy Carswell, acting commanding officer of 121 Communications and Rescue Flight at Sea Island here, landed on the choppy water.

A 20-mile-an-hour wind was

CANADA, U.S. ATOM PACT TO BE SIGNED

OTTAWA (CP)—Canada and the United States have reached agreement on a new atomic pact under which this country will receive information on the design of atomic power plants for military purposes, it was learned Wednesday.

The signing of the agreement is expected to be announced jointly in Ottawa and Washington today.

blowing at the time. Just as Lt. Lt. Carswell set his amphibian down, the Im Alone sank beneath the waves. Ryall and Innas struggled to keep afloat until ropes could be thrown to them.

The two men were flown to Sea Island, given an examination at the medical centre there and taken to their homes in an Air Force ambulance.

They suffered no ill effects from their prolonged stay in the cold water.

New Jet Fighter 'Year or Two' Away

OTTAWA (CP)—Defence Production Minister C. D. Howe told the Commons today the supersonic CF-105 jet interceptor will be in production in "a year or two."

Mr. Howe said the plane would roll off assembly lines of Avro Aircraft Ltd. at Malton in suburban Toronto.

This was the first official statement indicating when the RCAF would start taking delivery of the CF-105, designed to replace the subsonic CF-100 now in squadron service.

Mr. Howe said the Iroquois jet engine being designed for the CF-105 has passed its 50-hour preflight rating test, "the first milestone in development of an airplane engine."

John Pallett (PC—Peel) asked whether steps will be taken to ensure that Avro workers will not be laid off as the result of a reduction in CF-100 production.

Mr. Howe said there will be

INFANT KILLED IN HAPPY VALLEY

A 17-month-old infant girl was killed this morning in an accident in the Happy Valley area involving a motor vehicle.

The accident took place about 10 a.m. RCMP from the Belmont detachment who are investigating believe it occurred in a driveway off Latoria Road.

The dead child is Rae Greenhough, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. B. Greenhough.

She was rushed to St. Joseph's Hospital by private car and pronounced dead on arrival. Police investigation was hampered because they were not notified until the vehicle believed to have been involved had been moved. It is thought the driver was unaware the child had been struck.

COUNCIL SPLIT

By-Election Bid Made in Saanich

(See Also Page 15.)

A unique plan of taking to Saanich voters the controversial question of appointing a new municipal administrator was proposed today by Councillor J. Ronald Grant.

Coun. Grant, who favors the move, offered to resign his council seat if one of the opponents of the plan would do the same.

They would then find a third candidate who favors the scheme and the three candidates would stand in a by-election for the two seats.

If Coun. Grant and the new man were elected it would give the proponents a council majority, instead of a minority as was disclosed in a 4-3 council vote Wednesday night.

If Coun. Grant and the candidate put up by the opposing faction were re-elected, the situation would remain as it is now with the administrator's appointment rejected.

"I'll put my weight behind a candidate prepared to back appointment of a municipal administrator," Coun. Grant said, "and let the people decide."

"We have found it increasingly difficult to carry out the program on which we campaigned, namely, reorganization of municipal administration, and this can't be accomplished without appointment of a municipal administrator."

Smoking—Cancer Link Probed By Ottawa Survey

By VICTOR J. MACKIE
Times Ottawa Correspondent

OTTAWA—A mass survey of Canadians in an attempt to ascertain what relation, if any, there is between smoking and lung cancer, has been undertaken by the department of national health.

The smoking habits of the people of this country are only a part of the study. In its novel experiment in the study of disease the department is asking a large number of Canadians where and how they have been living over the past 20 years and something about their personal habits, officials of the department announced today.

58,000 ANSWERS
A trial run was conducted earlier this year. The questionnaire was sent to some 5,000 persons. The department was encouraged by the good response, some 3,000 questionnaires being returned.

This confirmed the department's decision to proceed with the large-scale mailing program to some 175,000 Canadians. Approximately 100,000 questionnaires have been mailed to date and the department has had replies from over 58,000—nearly a 60 per cent response, which is regarded as "excellent."

The questionnaire devotes most of its enquiries to cigarette, cigar, and pipe smoking. It asks Canadians whether they have smoked more than 100 cigarettes during their lifetimes, or more than 10 cigars, or more than 20 pipefuls of tobacco, it also asks if they inhale.

The questionnaire is going to all parts of Canada and to citizens in all types of occupations and circumstances. Health officials have asked all receiving the enquiries to regard their answers as a contribution to national well-being. Information provided is to be treated as confidential as far as the individual is concerned and is required solely for statistical purposes, officials said.

Comet Jetliner Balks In Moscow Preview

MOSCOW (UP)—British airmen proudly loaded 20 Soviet aviation officials aboard a British Comet jetliner for a demonstration flight today, flashed on the seat belt light and punched the engine starters. Nothing happened.

For 30 embarrassing minutes the deadpan Russians sat strapped in their seats aboard the sleek plane at Vnukovo airport.

An equally deadpan RAF wing commander, B. D. Sellick, emerged from the cockpit and announced, "either the batteries have gone flat (dead) or there is a fault in the wiring system."

The hundred Russian officials gathered to watch the demonstration flight politely watched the Soviet passengers climb out with an invitation to come back in another four hours to try again.

Among the watchers was Andrei Tupolev—designer of the Soviet TN-104 jet airliner.

JUDGE CUTS TAX-DODGER'S GIMMICK DOWN TO SIZE

He's Not Lonely Any More.... He's Back Among the Taxpayers

WASHINGTON (AP)—The difference between what you make and what you think you ought to make isn't a "loss on labor" for tax deduction purposes, the U.S. tax court ruled Wednesday.

Furthermore, the court said a taxpayer can't set up a personal, one-man labor union and then deduct dues paid to it on his income tax return.

"Confused thinking," the court told Willard M. Bostick Jr., tool and dye maker of Maple Heights, Ohio, who tried both gimmicks.

Bostick, who filed his 1951 tax return in Maryland when he lived in that state, reported total income for the year of $5,045.36. He claimed a deduction of $93,053.62 for "loss of labor" and $3,000 "union dues, L.A.W.S."

Bostick, who handled his own case before the court, said "L.A.W.S." stood for "Lonely American Workman's Society." He was the only member.

He told the court he determined union dues should be $3,000, then put that amount in a separate billfold.

In a statement attached to his return, Bostick explained he calculated his time and effort for 1951 were worth $98,098.98. So he deducted the $5,045.36 of actual income and claimed a "loss of labor" of $93,053.62.

The court said Bostick will have to compute his tax return over again.

ROCK 'N' ROLL GETS 6,000 IN VANCOUVER

VANCOUVER (BUP)—More than 6,000 Vancouver teen-agers shook, rattled 'n' rolled to the rock 'n' roll music of Wild Bill Haley and his Comets Wednesday night.

Several city policemen and policewomen attended the three-hour dance.

University of British Columbia psychology professor Edro Signori said the crowd is "hypnotized" by the band's music. He explained it is the musicians themselves who work on the youngsters' basic emotions and break down all their barriers of common-sense.

Boy Dies After Blow From Stone

COCHRANE, Alta. (CP)—A 12-year-old Cochrane boy, struck on the head by a stone Monday night, died in his home here.

It is believed Harold Melvin Steeves was playing with some pitching stones. One of the rocks struck the boy above the left ear.

When he came home he complained of a headache and nausea. He was put to bed. About 6 a.m. his parents noticed his breathing was labored and called an ambulance.

The boy was dead when the ambulance arrived.

PRAYER FOR TODAY

GOD OF THE SUMMER SKIES, the quiet woods and the murmuring seas we thank Thee today for the joy of children leaving their studies. May the long days and weeks ahead bring them new and happy experiences in the glow of sun and laughter. And may we have the wisdom and patience to share, day by day, in their delight; through Jesus Christ. Amen.

Electrocution May Not Mean Electric Chair

Man Can Be Executed Lying Down Or Standing, Says Committee Head

By VICTOR MACKIE
Times Ottawa Correspondent

OTTAWA—A "chair" would not necessarily be used to carry out capital punishment should the government accept and implement the special committee's recommendation that electrocution be substituted for hanging in Canada.

Harold Winch Disappointed

OTTAWA — Harold Winch (CCF, Vancouver East), a member of the joint committee of the Senate and Commons on capital punishment, expressed bitter disappointment today over the report of the committee. He said he was convinced that "an unbiased study of the evidence presented over two years conclusively proves that capital punishment is not a deterrent" and that it should be abolished.

Mr. Winch added, "I am convinced that after almost three years of sittings this committee is of the almost unanimous opinion that capital punishment is going to go. I am bitterly disappointed that the committee felt it is necessary to follow public opinion rather than lead it."

Don Brown (Lib., Essex West), chairman of the committee, said he believed "the committee has led public opinion." He contended, "We have brought out the facts. Now we'll give the public time to consider them."

Easter Won't Seek Re-Election To Baptist Post

First Baptist Church minister, Rev. G. R. Easter, leaves today to attend the Baptist Union of Western Canada convention which opens in Edmonton Friday.

Rev. Easter indicated he will not run for re-election as president of the Baptist Union.

"Headquarters is too far away," he said. "I can't do justice to my own church."

Other Victoria Baptist delegates, now arrived in Edmonton, are Rev. J. E. Smith, Emmanuel Baptist, and Mrs. Smith; Mrs. N. B. Phillips, president of the Church Women's Missionary Society in B.C., and Mrs. Maren Holm, First Baptist Church.

Don Brown, chairman of the special joint committee of the Senate and Commons on capital and corporal punishment, said there were several methods for carrying out execution by electrocution.

It was not necessary to use an electric chair with the modern methods.

"There is no need now for an electric chair. With new methods you can use a bed or a man can be executed standing up," he said.

He said that latest electrocution methods employ a thin band which is placed around the head and electrodes placed around the ankles. Properly applied there is no disfigurement under the new methods.

It is now not necessary to shave the head.

The application of carefully regulated alternating shocks result in instantaneous unconsciousness and speedy termination of life. Massive shocks are not necessary.

"It's not a pleasant subject," said Mr. Brown, "but our object is to recommend cessation of life in the most humane way possible."

"This recommendation," the committee said, "is premised on the evidence that modern methods of electrocution can produce instantaneous unconsciousness and painless death without any of the evil effects traditionally associated with the electric chair."

"If further investigation should create doubt as to the possibility of employing electrocution in this manner, then the committee considers it would be preferable to substitute the gas chamber as the method of execution."

That was the last paragraph of the report. It left to the cabinet to decide what "further investigation" of electrocution may be necessary.

The decision, parliamentary circles said, is not likely to be taken at this session of Parliament. Justice Minister Stuart Garson, who has primary responsibility, is absent from Parliament, recovering from an operation. Whatever decision is made, a general debate is likely to be provoked on the general question of retaining capital punishment.

OTTAWA PLANS TO PROBE HOSSEY 'CURE'

OTTAWA (BUP)—Health Minister Paul Martin promised the Commons yesterday to investigate and report on a cancer treatment which had been declared worthless by the U.S. government.

C. E. Johnston (SC—Bow River) asked Martin if the treatment, known as the Hossey treatment, was being advertised in Canada with the approval of the federal government.

B.C. to Pick Most Humane Death Penalty

KELOWNA, B.C. (CP)—Attorney-General Robert Bonner says British Columbia will try to adopt the most humane method of capital punishment if the criminal code is amended to provide alternative methods.

Mr. Bonner was commenting on a special parliamentary committee report Wednesday recommending that the gas chamber or electrocution be substituted for hanging and that capital punishment be abolished for those under 18.

Mr. Bonner did not express a personal opinion, but said it is the considered opinion of the legislature that capital punishment is not favored.

Crisis in U.K. Car Industry Hits Eden as PMs Confer

LONDON (Reuters) — Prime Minister Eden and his cabinet are expected today to consider the crisis in the British automobile industry which was pin-pointed Wednesday by the biggest mass lay-off of workers since the war.

Union leaders and workers were discussing anxiously today the three blows which fell within a few hours:

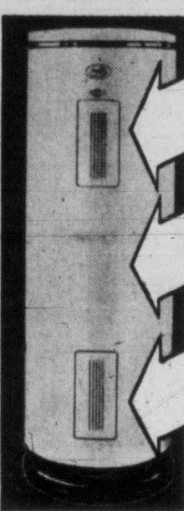

1. The announcement by the British Motor Corporation that 6,000 of its 55,000-strong labor force will be laid off Friday and other workers will be placed on a three or four-day week.

2. A statement from the Rover Motor Company of Birmingham that nearly 1,000 workers will be placed on a four-day week, because of a "normal seasonal recession in car purchasing."

3. The breaking off by the Standard Motor Company of Coventry of negotiations (over featherbedding) which leaders of nine unions had hoped might save the jobs of 1,200 workers due for dismissal next week.

The British Motor Corporation blamed its dismissals on increased government purchase tax, new instalment buying restrictions and rising wages and costs.

Jobless Relief Plans Outlined

(From Times News Service)

New government legislation by which the federal treasury will move into the field of relief for needy unemployed comes under debate today.

Six provinces already have signed agreements in anticipation of the bill, introduced Wednesday, by which the federal government will pay up to half of relief costs disbursed by the provinces and municipalities.

Federal aid will apply only when unemployment in a province exceeds 4.5 per cent of the province's population and will cover payments made to jobless not protected by unemployment insurance or other federal.

'Is Very Large Hole', Says Tory

Mrs. Ellen Fairclough, Progressive Conservative labor spokesman, said that among provinces not signing are Ontario and Quebec and that therefore "there is a very large hole." A large part of the Canadian population would not be covered by the legislation.

Ray Thomas (S.C. Westaskin) said the legislation could fill a gap and that he hopes it will be restricted or niggardly.

Hunt for Boy Called Off At Vancouver

VANCOUVER (CP)—The search for Bobby Henderson, eight, believed to have drowned in the swollen, muddy water of the Fraser River, was called off late Wednesday.

An RCAF plane was up for two hours Wednesday on low flying swoops up and down the river searching unsuccessfully for Bobby.

The child has been missing since Saturday afternoon. A two-day mass search was carried out after his nine-year-old brother, Johnny, said he had last seen Bobby near their home. Tuesday, he told police he and Bobby had been playing on the log booms of the Fraser river, four miles from home.

Mr. Henderson said Johnny apparently had been afraid to admit they had been playing near the river, something they were forbidden to do.

John Grant Citizenship Award Winner

St. Michael's school student, John Grant, received the citizenship award at closing exercises in the school Wednesday.

Hazen Argue (CCF-Assiniboia) said Wednesday the government should disallow a 7 per cent increase in railway freight rates ordered by the board of transport commissioners.

"Freight rates already are too high," he said.

He said he believes the CPR can absorb a recent wage increase out of profits without a boost in freight rates. But if the railways could prove they need increased revenue, the government should give serious study to meeting the need by a subsidy.

Mr. Argue was referring to a rate increase ordered recently by the transport board to take effect Tuesday. The railways had requested a 15 per cent increase and the board granted an interim 7 per cent boost pending hearings on the entire request.

NEW U.K. PROPOSALS FOR CYPRUS DELAYED

LONDON (Reuters)—An important government statement expected this week containing proposals to end union-with-Greece terrorism in Cyprus was deferred Wednesday until the end of July by British Colonial Secretary Alan Lennox-Boyd.

Lennox-Boyd told the House of Commons that the government would make a statement on "important policy questions" before Parliament went into summer recess (about the end of July).

Red China Issue On PMs Program

LONDON (Reuters)—The prime ministers of the Commonwealth, continuing their review of the world situation here today, decided to devote a full conference session Monday to the question of Commonwealth relationships with Communist China.

This is an issue on which there has been sharp divisions of view ever since the establishment of the Mao Tse-Tung regime seven years ago. Four countries—Britain, India, Pakistan and Ceylon—recognize the Peiking government, which Canada, Australia, New Zealand and South Africa do not. Britain recognized the Chinese People's government in 1950. Though the question of recognition has been thrashed out at previous Commonwealth conferences the position has continued unaltered—with member countries equally divided on the issue for and against recognition.

The conference, which will continue until Friday of next week, has also approved the following program of discussions:

Today: Continuation of the talks on East-West relations with which the conference opened Wednesday.

Friday morning: Problems of the Middle East. Afternoon—John Nightingale, intermediate, and Ian Gillespie, junior; English: R. Roberts, senior, Julian Greenwood, intermediate, and R. Cole, junior; Drawing: Edward Stott, senior, J. Johansen, intermediate, and Peter Genge, junior.

There are no conference sessions Saturday and Sunday.

Monday morning: China and Southeast Asia. Afternoon: Economic problems of the sterling area and world trade questions.

Tuesday afternoon: A discussion of defence confined to prime ministers whose countries are linked in various security pacts. India and Ceylon do not take part in these talks.

Wednesday morning: Nuclear energy for peaceful purposes; questions of Commonwealth membership, with particular reference to territories such as Malaysia and the Gold Coast, which are moving towards self-government. Afternoon: A further discussion on East-West relations.

Thursday: A session on questions still outstanding, and summing up of conference results.

Friday: Final meeting for closing remarks and approval of a communiqué.

Closure of 32-Bed Hospital Ward Linked to BCHIS 'Hold Line' Order

(The Canadian Press)

NEW WESTMINSTER—Royal Columbian hospital officials said Wednesday a shortage of nurses has forced closure of a 32-bed surgical ward.

The announcement, made by the board of directors, said it would not be fair to the staff to continue throughout the summer with a further reduction in nursing staff due to holidays. The staff was cut by 14 last fall at the suggestion of the B.C. Hospital Insurance Service, to allow the hospital to operate within its budget.

INJURED BOY "FAIR"

VANCOUVER—Barry Doyle, 12, was reported in fair condition in hospital here Wednesday night after undergoing surgery for injuries received in a 60-foot fall down a cliff at Prospect Point, at the entrance to Vancouver harbor.

The boy slipped and fell while he and three others were descending the cliff.

Crisis in Britain

BRITAIN'S BATTLE AGAINST inflation, says Sir Anthony Eden, "has now reached a critical stage." That battle involves us all since the health and strength of Britain are vital to the health and strength of the entire free world.

There is nothing new about Britain's problem. It was old and familiar in Roman times. The nation is trying to use more than it produces and paying for it by increasing the supply of money faster than the supply of goods.

Wages in general have been rising at the rate of about 7 per cent a year, productivity only by 4 per cent. That gap is inevitably spanned by higher prices.

As the labor unions continue to demand higher money wages than the output of goods can support, Britain not only must pay higher prices at home but must ask them on its export goods in world markets where it must meet increasing competition from such exporters as West Germany, Japan and even Russia. That way lies ruin for Britain.

After a tour of Russia and Britain Mr. Joseph Harsch, the distinguished Washington correspondent of The Christian Science Monitor, writes as follows: "The most alarming thing in the world today is not, I submit, the fact that the new soft tone of Moscow is dispelling the sense of unity and the common effort of the West which grew out of the cold war, but the fact that there is in the Soviet Union a modern industrial system just beginning to go into mass production of goods; whereas in Western Europe there is a spreading inflation and nowhere is it more serious or dangerous than in Britain."

There is no mystery, as Mr. Harsch says, about Russia's refusal to negotiate an effective disarmament agreement. "It is obtaining the disarmament of the West without paying a price—any price at all. France already has taken its NATO army to Algeria. Britain's economists and political leaders are looking now at the five divisions Britain is maintaining in Germany as the only visible place where an economy can be made which might check the inflation and restore Britain's balance of trade."

Let Ike Do It

THE AMERICAN GOVERN-ment and the Republican politicians have worked overtime to minimize President Eisenhower's illness and assure the public that their affairs are under complete control, despite the absence of their chief executive. But among those not impressed with this good news is Mr. James Reston, chief Washington correspondent of The New York Times and one of the most influential journalists in the nation. His description of Washington, at midsummer, 1956, is a gem of scepticism and irony.

The medical profession, says Mr. Reston, has done an admirable job of reassurance. "Just when some of us were fearful that a heart attack and an abdominal operation were not good for a man of 65, Dr. David Allman, president-elect of the American Medical Association, dispelled the gloom. 'When President Eisenhower recovers,' said Dr. Allman, 'he will be in better physical condition than any of his political opponents, Republican or Democratic, have been at any time in their lives.'"

"This statement," Mr. Reston adds grimly, "has helped explain one of the great mysteries of the presidential campaign. Why is it, we

If those divisions were withdrawn and returned to civilian life, their able-bodied and skilled men could produce goods, whereas they now consume goods and produce nothing. Moreover, the military use of raw materials would be reduced, leaving more for civilian use.

At present Britain's economy is overstrained by the demand for goods from the housewife, the export market and the military services. One of the three must be cut and will be cut one way or another.

The defence system cannot be cut without grave risk not only to Britain but to the whole NATO alliance. The export of British goods cannot be cut without imperilling the whole economy which lives on exports. The consumption of goods at home can be cut, or at least held at its present level, either by voluntary restraint and the sharp edge of fiscal weapons or it can be cut by inflation which, by raising prices, will discourage the purchaser, mostly to the damage of the poor.

The Eden Government is now struggling with this crisis. So far it has relied on fiscal weapons—taxes to drain off excessive public purchasing power, high interest rates to prevent unnecessary capital investment. But it is by no means certain that these methods can succeed against the demands of the unions for higher money wages.

The Labor Party confidently predicts the Government's failure and it offers its own alternative. The alternative is a return to direct government control over the consumption of goods—even though Britain, under such controls, lurched from one crisis to another when Labor was in office.

If the Government lacks the courage to cure inflation without controls, if the unions demand more money wages than their production will support, then Britain may have to retreat into controls under this or some other Government. At the moment Sir Anthony is appealing to the unions to modify their demands and recognize the inflationary crisis. If it is not recognized and cured the consequences to Britain's future could be disastrous, as inflation usually is, in any country.

Have been asking ourselves, that Estes Kefauver has steadily lost ground? The answer is that all the other candidates . . . have either undergone serious medical operations or enjoyed some other terrible illness. Kefauver alone, the old iron man of the Tennessee football team, suffered from perfect health and is therefore eliminated. The president's doctors and their adviser and spokesman, James C. Hagerty, have done more to promote the national peace of mind than anyone in our society since Dr. Coue."

Meanwhile, says Mr. Reston, the President's colleagues are rallying around to inform the public that business proceeds as usual, that the recent row between the armed services was only a misunderstanding, overlaid by the newspapers, that the cold war is going well for the West and badly for the Russians (a fact not visible outside Washington). "The mood of the capital," Mr. Reston concludes, with a decidedly sour note, "is in perfect harmony with the mood of the country. The do-it-yourself craze . . . has faded at last. It has been replaced by 'let Ike do it' and everybody loves it, or almost everybody."

To Plan Beautification

WHILE THERE MAY BE CRIT-icism of one or two of the appointments, it is encouraging that the eleven-man Capital Improvement District Commission has been named. Presumably there will be an early start on the many questions confronting this body and a determined effort to plan development of the area for the best long-term results.

The task is no small one, since the $10 millions which Premier Bennett has suggested should be spent here over a period of years could effect major changes in the appearance of the capital city and environs. With such a sum involved—if that indeed is still the Premier's intenion—it is essential that an overall program be formed and carried out. Piecemeal and patching would result not only in a waste of money but a definite depreciation of the local scene.

Many proposals no doubt will be put before the commission, some of which will have little to recommend them but enthusiasm. In a place so richly endowed by nature as is Greater Victoria the commission has a logical basis on which to work. Its aim should be to combine the needs of the area and its natural beauties in a way to achieve the maximum benefit—no small task for any body of volunteers.

Record Production

ACCORDING TO THE BUREAU of Statistics at Ottawa, Canada's economy laid the basis for a record year in the first three months of 1956. At the rate of production achieved in that period, this country will show a gross national product of $28.3 billions this year, compared with $26.7 billions in 1955.

The first quarter represents merely a rate, of course. Developments during the remainder of the year may raise or lower the indicated total. But it is clear on the existing evidence that Finance Minister Harris was not being wildly optimistic—as he was accused in some quarters—when he predicted a 1956 gross national product of $28 billions.

It is equally clear that the federal monetary policy—designed at present to counterbalance inflationary tendencies—has not restricted Canadian production. Those who have cried blue ruin because of current curbs on credit cannot evade the fact that we are producing more than ever before. Mr. Harris, whose expansive economic forecasts proved right last year, despite Conservative criticism, appears likely to win similar justification this year.

The CCF Without Socialism

IN British Columbia we were so interested in the defeat of Social Credit in Saskatchewan (only Mr. Bennett being able to construe it as a victory) that we have largely overlooked the other side of that decisive election.

If the Social Credit march to Ottawa has bogged down on the Prairies and Mr. Bennett no longer looks like the leader of a national crusade, the Saskatchewan verdict had deeper meaning. Even in the moment of a C.C.F. victory, it meant that socialism is dead for all practical purposes in the current politics of Canada. It may seem to prosper, as Social Credit prospers, in certain isolated enclaves; it is rejected by the nation as a whole. Also by Saskatchewan, its birthplace.

Hutchison

THIS may seem a strange thing to say about Saskatchewan when the government of Mr. T. C. Douglas is given another term of office with a majority somewhat reduced. Nevertheless, it is true, and no one can know it better than Mr. Douglas. For he is himself both the symbol and the manager of the retreat from socialism.

The C.C.F. was born in Saskatchewan, a child of the depression. Its policy was laid down in its birth certificate, the Regina Manifesto, which promised to repeal the system then called capitalism but no longer recognizable by that name. At the beginning the C.C.F. was truly socialist, though somewhat confused, like all other political parties, including the Liberals and Conservatives. Therefore, when the first C.C.F. government came to office in Saskatchewan under one of the ablest and most attractive politicians in Canada it began to implement the Regina Manifesto so far as it could under its restricted powers.

IT launched a formidable program of government ownership in various industries. It greatly expanded social services. And it waited for the nation to follow it, on the assumption that nothing but socialism could cure the depression. But the depression was cured without socialism, or at least the kind of socialism preached by the C.C.F. That lesson was not lost on Mr. Douglas, an educated man, a realist and also a pragmatist. While the doctrinaires of his party continued to preach the fundamental doctrine, while even Mr. Coldwell continued to predict another massive depression throughout the postwar decade, Mr. Douglas was not fooled.

HE saw that something much more basic than a business boom had occurred in Canada. He understood that the capitalist system, as it existed in the words of the Regina Manifesto, existed no longer anywhere else but had been quietly replaced by quite another system on the day when the Government of Canada took over the management of the credit mechanism.

Thus managed, the system continued to be based on private enterprise but the decisive gears of the economic machine were under the hands of the state. The process we have been witnessing throughout most of the Western world in the last 20 years is the successful attempt of the state to give the economy a general, overall management without interfering in the detailed decisions of business, usually wiser than the decisions of any bureaucrats.

THE proof of Mr. Douglas' capacity is that he saw the success of this curious compromise long before most socialists and acted accordingly.

Discreetly, step by step, he repealed the Regina Manifesto in its birthplace and by the time of his recent election was doing everything in his power to attract private capital into his province. He went to the country as the leader of a non-socialist government and on that clear understanding his people re-elected him.

Now, this shift in Saskatchewan must be highly embarrassing to the surviving, unconstructed socialists of the C.C.F. in Parliament. Their gestures toward socialism become exceedingly hollow when the only C.C.F. government in Canada is so completely committed to private enterprise after its early and bitter experiences with government ownership.

Mr. Douglas had to make this fundamental shift if he were to be re-elected. But, knowing and admiring him, I feel quite certain that he would not have made it if he hadn't believed in it.

IT is the habit of politicians to jeer at opponents who change their minds (as if all politicians and all parties didn't change their minds frequently, as they must) but it seems to me that the change in Mr. Douglas is sensible, admirable and inevitable.

More realistic than many of his friends in Ottawa—and in British Columbia—he has recognized the facts of our society as they exist in our time, not as they seemed to exist in the Regina Manifesto. He can tell the hour on the clock of our era.

The hands of the clock are not pointing backward to our pre-depression society but they certainly are not pointing to socialism, if socialism means state operation of industry. They are pointing to another system as yet nameless and still in rapid evolution toward unknown ends.

Under these conditions classic socialism is irrelevant. No party can hope to be elected in Canada on a truly socialist policy, of which the Saskatchewan election is the latest and most impressive proof.

He Works Too

Tony Dickason's writing about Bert Thomas' talent being wasted, if we, the people of Victoria, do not help to pay for his expenses, touches my heart. Swim Plan Appreciated

I am asked by the chairman of the Tourist Trade Group, Victoria Chamber of Commerce, to write you. The group wish to thank you for the further evidence of your interest to publicize Victoria and the efforts put forward by you recently to have Marilyn Bell come here.

These consistent efforts to bring Victoria to the notice of people elsewhere will surely result in considerable advantage from a tourist standpoint and the group are very appreciative of your efforts.

Civil Servants and Politics

Along with a great many other people, I have always been under the impression that civil servants never, at any time, gave utterance to any political interests or affiliations, regardless of whatever party they may privately identify themselves with.

It was, therefore, with a certain amount of amazement that I heard Mr. Percy Wright, whom I understand is a civil servant, voice strong opinions in favor of Social Credit at a Social Credit meeting which I attended with a B.C. friend on a recent Monday evening.

Is this not contrary to Civil Service regulations? (MRS.) DOROTHY AITKEN.

Borrowing Trip

Although the Social Credit Party had no policy or platform to offer the people, previous to the Provincial election, except a continuance of what they choose to call free enterprise, the party did however promise to operate on a pay as you go plan.

We note Premier W. A. C. Bennett went to the U.S.A. to borrow $40,000,000.

Is that method of carrying on any different from the previous methods of the two old line parties? I hope the citizens of our country, will realize in time that three parties are all the same. A continuance of Social Credit administration will be the ruination of B.C.

Food for Thought

The three recent provincial elections must have given all political, and economic, students much food for thought; that is, if they are deeply concerned about Canada ever becoming a dictatorship country!

There has been a slow, and long, erosion taking place in the parliamentary system; for long a matter of deep regret.

LOOK FELLAS, NO HANDS!

By B. A. TOBIN

How To Be Unimpressed

ONE of the things that distinguish the professional from the amateur in most lines of activity is the ease with which he performs. There's a finesse, a polish to the professional job that the amateur seldom can equal. When a thing's done properly it has to look easy.

That's why ballet dancers, who are straining every muscle and torturing their lungs, have to appear as though they were floating around in blissful comfort. That is why jugglers, or singers, or actors, or violinists, or public speakers practise continually to get the easy-to-do effect. Once they can look as though what they're doing is no bother at all, they're in.

But sometimes it can be overdone. A vaudeville juggler, for instance, in the old days when there were such people, often became too expert. His intricate act looked as though it was so easy anybody could do it. So then he had to practise adding a few touches to make it look hard. That way the audience felt they were getting their money's worth.

The Casual Air

Like audiences have their code, too. Like the performer, the man in the audience, if he is to cut a proper figure in public, must achieve the casual air.

He mustn't seem eager, or anxious, or enthusiastic. That would betray him immediately as a tyro, a bumpkin. He must, rather, appear blasé, bored and remote.

Better yet, he should appear to be preoccupied with something other than what is going on around him; as though his personal attention was really much too important to be distracted by the business at hand.

Reduced to its final essence, such an attitude represents the highest form of spectatorship. It is an art which may take years to cultivate, but once attained it should last a lifetime.

Out of This World

Demonstrating its most advanced form, a man might spend the whole of a public concert with his nose buried in a book. He might read a newspaper throughout a lecture, or hum operas to himself during an evening of chamber music.

At an art exhibit he will ignore the pictures and resolutely discuss gardening the whole time he is there. At a horticultural show, on the other hand, he will take a stand in a corner, turn his back on the flowers and talk only of art.

At an entertainment, the comedian's best lines must be greeted with a yawn. Like Queen Victoria, your true spectator is never amused.

The desired effect is one of complete boredom, as though he were so much the master of the subject at hand that and concern, to the Mother of Parliaments in Great Britain.

What we are facing—on the not too far away horizon, politically—is the much vaunted promise of a bright "New Order," which properly analysed, is the same old stuff—in chameleon garb—that is, the collectivization, and centralization, of the power of high finance. There has been, and now is, a great outcry going up in Britain—comparable to that recently in Canada—over the exploitation of a country's potential wealth, which seems to sense that the final outcome of such excessive measures can only lead to a country's political dictatorship.

The parliamentary system in Canada now—through lack of a strong opposition—both federally and provincially, has practically passed over in favor of the executive—and order in council—which is only a few steps to complete dictatorship.

The disposal of a country's potential wealth—in the long-run interest of its people—needs to be in very careful hands, and hands, and that only is obtained through a consistent legislative body, where the voice of the people can be heard through their members, in order to counteract the overwhelming zeal of the astute "lobbyists."

Gallon a Day

Could I request some space in your worthy newspaper to answer a certain S. A. Whitfield of Langford.

First, I would like to ask him just how many children are in this man's family? And how on earth did they acquire strong, healthy teeth and bones but from milk—this very vital source of calcium?

I believe that a certain amount of good is destroyed in the process of pasteurization of milk. I am not, though, entirely against it as there are those who are not able to enjoy fresh raw milk the day it is produced, thus the need for some type of preservation until time of delivery.

I am in the middle of raising two boys aged 5½ and 4, and two healthier, more disease-free youngsters I have yet to find. I attribute this not only to an abundance of fresh fruit and vegetables (the source of vitamins and minerals) but also to the consumption of lots of fresh, raw milk. We use a gallon a day.

There are numerous raw milk vendors in the Greater Victoria area and they cannot begin to meet the demand for their fine product. Incidentally there are a considerable number of doctors on their routes, so they don't all believe that the skull and crossbones should be stamped on the bottle of raw milk.

Also Mr. Whitfield, have you ever tried weaning a calf and feeding it on water and a solid food? My, but it must have been dissatisfied and had a terrific fat belly.

You are not forced to drink raw milk so why should those who do not want to drink the pasteurized product be forced to do so?

Canada is a free country with freedom of choice and I for one hope it remains that way.

How To Be Unimpressed

he cannot bear to consider the poor efforts being offered.

Such an attitude can quickly gain a man a reputation as an authority on a wide range of topics.

Coming from the concert hall, the ingenious will gush about the virtuosity of the pianist. Your expert spectator will talk only of the prospects for yachting next weekend. At the theatre, asked how he enjoyed the play, he will not condescendingly and wonder aloud if atomic power will replace hydro within our generation.

Best Man Wins

Naturally such a type of spectator poses a particular challenge to performers and artists of all kinds. The actor who can rouse that fellow in the aisle seat from his book, the singer who can halt the murmured conversation of the two men in Row 12, the painter whose work can win a glance from the accomplished spectatorman, knows beyond doubt that he has arrived.

Sometimes he may be driven to desperate lengths to achieve this. No holds are barred when two masters of their respective arts meet. And often the perspiring artist must wish he could adopt the tactics of the farmer who sold a mule to a neighbor.

"Just treat him, gentle," said the farmer, "and he'll do a good job for you." The neighbor took the mule home, but a few days later he was back.

"You lied to me," he accused the farmer. "I treated that mule gentle as you told me. I warned his oats. I bedded him down every night in fresh hay. I curried-combed him every morning. But he won't do a lick of work."

Gentle Persuasion

"Let's have a look at him," said the farmer.

They went out to the field where the mule stood hitched to a plow, refusing to budge. The farmer picked up a two-by-four and broke it over the mule's head.

"Now try him," he said.

The neighbor took the reins, said giddy-up, and the mule started off down the furrow.

"But I thought you said you had to treat him gentle," he called back to the previous owner.

"Sure you do," said the farmer. "But first you have to get his attention."

By Her Grave

Now that the clogging clay is shed And gone with mother earth to bed, Her spirit can the better spread;

Like garden scent on evening air, Like lovely melodies somewhere, Or sunset tints really rare.

Her helping hands, her Christly ways, And oh her smile that lit our days!— Lord! What in me will shed Christ's rays?

The Hovel By the Sea

THE older I grow, the more I am impressed by the extraordinary wisdom of some of the stories which, as children, we read as simple fairy tales.

Just recently, for instance, I've been reading "The Fisherman and His Wife" in a battered crimson-covered copy of the fairy tales collected by the Brothers Grimm.

You may remember it. It begins: "Once there was a fisherman who lived with his wife in a hovel close to the sea."

One day, the fisherman caught a flounder who turned out to be an enchanted prince. Moved by the flounder's pleading, he put the fish back into the shining water, and it sank to the bottom, leaving a streak of blood behind it.

When he told his wife what he had done, she was angry with him, and said that he should have wished for something that the enchanted prince would have granted.

She sent him back to wish for a nice clean cottage.

Obediently, he went back, and found the sea no longer bright and shining, but dull and green. However, he stood by it, and called "Flounder, flounder in the sea."

Prythee harken unto me. My wife, I wish, must have her own will. And sends me to beg a boon of thee."

The wish for the cottage was granted and for a while all went well.

Then the wife was no longer content. She wanted a big stone castle. Again her husband returned to the sea, which was no longer green but dark violet and grey.

However, the wish for the castle was granted, and the wife was content until she got the notion that she'd like to be king.

This time, the sea was dark, grey, and rough and evil-smelling.

But the wife became King. Then she wanted to be Emperor. After that, she wanted to be Pope.

Finally, she demanded that the flounder should make her Lord of the Universe.

Her husband, who had protested at the growing enormity of her wishes, told her this was impossible. But, woman-like, she persisted.

ed and with reluctance he went back to the sea once more.

This time, such a storm was raging that he could barely keep his feet. Houses and trees quivered and swayed, and mountains trembled, and rocks rolled into the sea. The sky was pitchy black. It thundered and lightened, and the sea rose in black waves mountains high and crested with white foam.

Into the howling storm, the fisherman shrieked the too-familiar words "Flounder, flounder in the sea."

"Now what does she want?" asked the Flounder.

"Alas," he said, "she wants to be Lord of the Universe."

"Now she must go back to her old hovel," said the Flounder, "and there she is!"

And I wish I could rid myself of the thought that, in this atomic age, we, too, are asking to be Lords of the Universe.

When I read what the world's top scientists and geneticists have recently been saying about the dangers of nuclear radiation resulting from even the peaceful uses of atomic power, I have a horrid feeling that we are playing about with vast natural forces of which we're still largely ignorant, and which could eventually destroy our descendants.

I have a feeling that if we go blindly forward, we'll not end up as Lords of the Universe. We'll end up in the old hovel by the sea. Or maybe not even there.

(And if this seems to you the ramblings of a semi-educated housewife, may I suggest that you read N. J. Berrill's "Man's Emerging Mind." Especially the chapter called "Atoms and Genes." You might also read what British and American scientists have been saying lately. And, for comfort, you might remember that the UN Secretary-General Dag Hammarskjöld has announced the appointment of three scientific secretaries to study and assemble material on atomic radiation. I for one am waiting with intense interest to see what they will report to the UN Scientific Committee.

For this is no longer a matter for single nations. It's a matter that affects the whole of mankind.

LONDON LETTER

By WALLACE REYBURN

Fountains Close Early

LONDON—One of England's big lacks is the corner drug store and its soda fountain. As if things weren't bad enough when it comes to trying to get a cup of coffee and a sandwich or a chocolate bar or a package of cigarettes in the evening in this country, the Home Office is trying to push through a regulation that sweetshops must close at 7 p.m. instead of the 9.30 p.m. that it is now permissible for them to stay open until.

Not that many sweetshops (where you can buy candies, ice cream and cigarettes) do avail themselves of the opportunity to stay in business each day until 9.30. It is a constant irritant to all Canadians and Americans in this country and to many local citizens that after 6 o'clock, when all the general shops close, you have the devil's own time finding a place where you can purchase what is readily available in a North American drug store—from a cup of coffee to a magazine.

In downtown London you can have an after-movie snack—at clip-joint prices in one of the night clubs. But in the suburbs, when you come out of an evening movie you emerge onto streets on which every store and cafe is closed up tight. If you happen to live in an area where the pubs stay open to 11 p.m., instead of 10.30, which is more usual, you can get a quick few drinks before going home. But that's all.

I'm not a young man any more, but I often wonder, as I see young couples coming out of an English cinema, what courting days are like for them here. The facilities certainly seem limited. In Canada after he's taken his girl to the movies they can drop into a drug store or a cafe for a soda or a cup of coffee and he can further press his suit in the pleasant atmosphere of a restaurant cubicle. Here it is a dash to catch the last bus, which is likely to be around 11 p.m., and home.

In this country it is not so much that cafes and the equivalent of drug stores are not prepared to give service in the evenings. It is the Catering and Wages Act which lays down rigid rules as to how long employees preparing and serving food and drinks shall work each day and what minimum wages they must be paid.

In the welfare state there is an assurance that people in catering aren't overworked and underpaid, but it means that the public is faced with the limited choice of going to a pub or having its evening snacks at home.

Market, Price Policy Demanded By Farmers

OTTAWA (BUP)—The Inter-provincial Farm Union Council asked the Federal government to day to convene an agricultural marketing conference as one of the first steps in solving farm problems.

It also asked for a royal commission to investigate all aspects of grain handling.

The recommendations were contained in an 18-page brief presented to the Commons standing committee on agriculture and colonization.

"It is positively inhuman to allow an industry to suffocate in the abundance of production," the brief said. "Therefore, a well-planned orderly marketing and pricing policy will contribute to the future of farm families for generations to come."

The brief warned that a continued farm recession could end up in a major economic depression.

Blanched Celery Best; How to Do It

Although non-blanching celery is finding favor among gardeners, many consider its flavor not to be compared with the older types, which require blanching.

There are two main ways of achieving the long white stalks. One is by using soil, and the other is with paper collars or sleeves, tied around each plant.

If your soil is heavy the latter are best, otherwise you are in for a lot of work.

Before placing the collars, go along the rows removing all plants with a hoe, a little at a time, or side shoots.

from the plants, also any decayed foliage. Then make a single tie around each plant to retain the stalks while the collars are put in place.

Sheets of heavy brown wrapping paper, or a light corrugated cardboard, are cut into strips four or five inches wide. These are wrapped around the stalks and firmly tied with heavy string. Additional collars are used as the plants grow.

A light soil makes it possible to draw the soil around the plants with a hoe, a little at a time, first after holding the stems together with a light tie. As the plants progress, more soil is drawn up until the plants stand in ridged soil with just the leaves protruding.

Never apply collars or mound the soil when the stems and foliage are wet.

Pravda Article Set the Stage?

Soviet Leaders Believed Ready to Tell
Why They Didn't Stop Stalin Terror

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER

WASHINGTON (AP)—State department officials say they expect Communist rulers to attempt a public explanation soon of why they did not stop Joseph Stalin's reign of terror.

Some of them say they think the stage was set for such an explanation Wednesday, when Pravda, the Communist party newspaper, published an article in which the question was raised by Eugene Dennis, American Communist leader.

Among top officials and experts here there is full agreement that the Communist world is in ferment over this question. There is no such agreement on State Secretary Dulles' view that Moscow control over Communist parties of other countries has been "very greatly weakened," and that the present Russian leaders no longer have Stalin's one-time power to "compel obedience through terror."

OPTIMISTIC VIEWS

Many of Dulles' advisers privately feel that these views are, at least by implication, too optimistic about the meaning of what is now happening to international communism.

They note that at the 20th Communist party congress in Moscow in February, party boss Nikita Khrushchev and others advocated more self-criticism at all party levels and a greater degree of autonomy among Communist parties in advancing toward Communist goals.

Dennis' article, which appeared first in the New York Daily Worker, referred to Khrushchev's February speech denouncing Stalin and said bluntly that "questions about the present Soviet leaders often appear." "Did any one of them attempt to change anything" during the period of Stalin's rule? "Could one have stopped the evil goings-on earlier? . . . How great and how serious are the changes going on now?"

LEAST POINTED

Such questions had previously been put in articles by Communist leaders in Britain, Italy and France. Dulles was talking about these and related criticisms of the present Moscow leadership when he said there is obviously great dissatisfaction with this leadership among Communists in and out of Russia.

Experts on Russia here said that Pravda may have chosen to print the Dennis article because in their view it was the least pointed in its criticisms of the present leadership. But the experts noted also that the Pravda editors could have ignored the whole thing if they had wanted to do so and suggested its publication may indicate that the Soviets leadership has decided the time has come to deal with the criticisms.

Use of the Dennis article, they said, could set the stage for a reply directed not only to Communists outside Russia but also to those inside and to the Russian people generally.

Sommers' Bid for More Details In Sturdy Defence Turned Down

VANCOUVER—Court of Appeal today dismissed the appeal of former Lands and Forests Minister R. E. Sommers to compel David A. Sturdy, Vancouver lawyer, to give further particulars of his statement of defence in Mr. Sommers' slander suit.

Mr. Justice Sidney Smith, who heard the appeal with Justices Davey and Sheppard, stated that they were in substantial agreement with the reason given by Mr. Justice McInnes.

The case arose out of remarks made by Mr. Sturdy before the Forestry Inquiry conducted by Chief Justice Sloan in Vancouver, Dec. 16, 1955.

Alfred Bull, QC, counsel for

Mr. Sommers, contended that the defendant should give particulars of his allegations with the same particularity as in a criminal case.

The appellant also contended that Mr. Justice McInnes having expressed the opinion that the defendant's plea of justification contained a charge of bribery against Mr. Sommers then the judge should have held that the plea should have been set forth with the same particularity as an indictment under the Criminal Code.

Further it was contended the judge should have found that an agreement to issue forest management licences to three companies was connoted by words in Mr. Sturdy's particulars, the words being, "The payment of sums were incurred as consideration for the performance of the plaintiff's duties in the issuing and awarding of forest management licences."

NEW 'NIGHTMARE' DISEASE

Mystery Sickness Kills 200 Japanese

TOKYO (UP)—A Japanese physician has reported the deaths of 200 young persons in Tokyo from an unknown ailment similar to the fatal "nightmare" disease in the Philippines, it was disclosed today.

Dr. Saburo Yoshimura of the Tokyo metropolitan health bureau told a meeting of doctors last week that 60 persons died in 1954, another 60 in 1955 and 80 so far this year from the mysterious illness.

"I gather that nationwide the deaths must total several hundred" this year, Yoshimura said.

He said autopsies have given no clue to the illness because other than a "relaxed" state of the heart tissue and heavy accumulation of blood in the heart, no other abnormal complications could be seen.

Acute symptoms similar to a person dying from a heart attack were not found, he said.

Dr. Yoshimura said a feature of the illness was that the victims mostly were healthy men between 20 and 30 years old who were in high spirits up to the time they went to bed and died.

Vancouver Tory Calls on Lesage, Bennett to Bury Hatchet

OTTAWA (CP)—Progressive Conservative Howard Green said Wednesday construction of the proposed $250,000,000 Mica Creek dam on the Columbia River in British Columbia should be undertaken by and for Canadians.

Resources Minister Lesage who will confer with Premier Bennett at Victoria July 4 on power development of the Columbia basin, said he would make no comments before the meeting.

Water resources were the property of the province and B.C. had the initiative for developing them. He was going to Victoria "with an open mind and in a spirit of co-operation."

The federal government last year blocked a B.C. government scheme to sell water power rights at Castlegar on the Canadian section of the Columbia to the U.S. Kaiser interests. It did this by obtaining parliamentary approval of legislation requiring a federal licence for any works on international rivers.

Mr. Green, MP for Vancouver Quadra, urged Ottawa and Victoria to stop sniping at each other on power development. He asked Mr. Lesage to bury the hatchet—and not in Premier Bennett's skull.

He said co-operation of the federal and B.C. governments is essential if the Columbia is to be harnessed for power.

Mr. Green also maintained that the federal government should underwrite the financing of the Mica Creek dam, described recently as feasible by Gen. A. G. L. McNaughton, chairman of the Canadian section of the international joint commission.

He described the possibilities of power development on the Columbia as "staggering" and "the greatest thing that has ever appeared over the horizon in British Columbia." Some 1,000,000 or 2,000,000 more people might be attracted to B.C. by consequent development of industry. The entire development, including dams, power plants and transmission systems, might run to $2,000,000,000.

Mr. Green conceded that Mr. Bennett has put up "quite a reasonable argument" for allowing U.S. interests to build the Mica Creek dam, on the big bend of the Columbia 80 miles north of Revelstoke.

Mr. Green conceded that Mr. Bennett has put up "quite a reasonable argument" for allowing U.S. interests to build the Mica Creek dam, on the big bend of the Columbia 80 miles north of Revelstoke.

It was unfair to B.C. simply to veto B.C. power schemes as had been done last year. Instead, Ottawa should say clearly what it intends to do in development of the Columbia basin.

H. W. Herridge (CCF, Kootenay West) said he hopes a definite step will be taken toward Columbia development at the Victoria meeting.

There were three points to remember: The project was too big for party politics; some type of Columbia basin authority should be established for public ownership or public control, and action was needed as soon as possible.

James A. Byrne (L-Kootenay East) urged separate development of the Kootenay and Columbia Rivers without the proposed diversion of the Kootenay headwaters into the Columbia system. Such a diversion would flood out large tracts of farming and tourist land.

He called for co-operative Canada-U.S. development of Kootenay River power.

George McLeod (SC-Okanagan Revelstoke) agreed that the Kootenay and Columbia should be developed separately. Interference with the flow of international rivers through diversions might cause complications which in turn would result in long delays.

Both he and Mr. Green mentioned the proposal of the B.C. Electric Company to build the Mica Creek dam.

$140,000 Loss In 700-Member Credit Union

KIRKLAND LAKE, Ont. (CP)—A $140,000 deficit was announced today in a 700-member Caisse Populaire, a local savings organization.

Public accountant G. E. Lapointe said he has been appointed liquidator for the credit union, Sunday. Members would get back "not more than" 10 cents for every dollar invested.

"Maladministration and over-optimistic speculation are blamed for its failure," Mr. Lapointe said.

FOR HOMES
"The caisse was established to give loans to working people who wanted to buy their own homes but had not security; and to provide a safe means of saving. But the administering committees did not abide by the rules of the caisse, and permitted money to be used for commercial enterprises," he said.

"They were ignorant of the rules, and cannot be blamed for the loss."

A deficit totalling $139,848 was accounted for by a lumber company's debt to the caisse of $52,942, loss of $43,682 on a co-operative undertaking and other losses.

TAKES PRACTICE, BUT WORTH IT

Drownproof Swim Classes Start

First Victoria swim classes in the new drownproofing method are already in progress. It was reported today by YMCA swim instructor Archie McKinnon.

A decision to publicize the method whereby even non-swimmers can stay afloat for long periods without special equipment was announced by Victoria-Esquamet health authorities Wednesday.

But Mr. McKinnon says he has already started an experimental class of women.

"They are getting it, but it takes lots of practice," he said. He said it is easier to teach to people who can already swim. "It is a valuable thing," he stressed and makes it possible for weak swimmers to remain afloat for hours through controlled breathing with little loss of energy.

Mrs. Shirley Brimblecome, chairman of the Red Cross Swimming and Water Safety Committee said the health board decision to promote drownproofing instruction here "sounds wonderful."

Young trees have a better chance of survival if they are planted in the spring.

She said she thought the over-stature of Technology and received the new drownproofing method are already in progress. It was reported today by YMCA swim instructor Archie McKinnon.

"We'll certainly look into it. No swimmers, some of whom had doubt we'll hear officially from either their legs or arms bound, the Red Cross," she added. The new procedure was discovered recently at Georgia in wait eight hours for "rescue."

City Finalist Certain In B.C. Amateur Golf

IT'S MY VIEW
BY Bill Walker

The champs came bouncing back last night. Long live the Irish, kings of the boxa world. Victoria Shamrocks aren't dead; they were only sleeping. That's what a boxa fan said as he wended his happy way from Memorial Arena Wednesday night. And the occasion was one for rejoicing. The game itself between the Rocks and Timmermen had everything, and neither team would have suffered in defeat. But for the Rocks, their first victory in six tries over the T-men this season was slightly more important than the statistics reveal. The club jelled, or as coach Whitey Severson said of his happy Irish warriors: "I'm so damned proud of those guys..." It was given and taken in the old-time Victoria-Nanaimo fashion, and marked with great goaltending, brilliant individual plays, and honest-to-goodness hustle. Really it was a shame that such a small smattering of the faithful found the time to find their way to the battleground. Surely, as Mann Cup holders, the Irish could do with a little more aid in this department. And they conclusively proved their right to this thought last night. It wasn't that the Timmermen were playing under wraps as they tossed an 11-game winning streak on the line. They went all out for No. 12, and Don Ashbee was the main absentee.

Harry Paid Irish Their Dues

And from the defeated came tribute. Coach Harry Wipper of the league leaders commented afterwards: "They've got a good club, the Irish... they outplayed us tonight... and I'll never count them short." A voice from the corner said, a trifle bitterly: "But we were sloppy tonight." But Wipper was not impressed. "They gave away a couple of goals, too," he answered the critic. Bobby Allen, the eastern scoring whizz, who pumped four goals past Don Hamilton, a key figure in the Irish victory, said: "I might have been a little lazy once or twice; I let Northrup run free on that long pass from Hamilton for one of their goals. But I didn't think he (Hamilton) could throw it that far." Then Allen, the OLA point champ who came west with Peterborough last fall, added: "This is a good league. We've had much better, and much tougher opposition, than we (at Peterborough) had last season in the east. And we respect the Rocks." "It will make them a better team," he said of the Shamrocks, "but it should make us better, too. We needed a defeat to bring us back to earth."

Two Goals, Or Were They?

"I think you got a goal in the last period that they took away from you," remarked a referee from the shower room. "I thought it was in too," said Allen of a bullet shot that whistled by (said the goal judge) the post, and in (said the T-men) the top corner. But the Irish had an argument on the same score. Alan Gill fired one in the third canto that had the goal judge under fire. The ball, and we were on the spot, either hit the crossbar and flipped the hem of the force of the drive, or hit the same top bar and bounced behind the line before bounding free into the field of play. "I," said the goal judge, "still don't think it was in. If it was, it would have stayed in." And let's be fair, folks, this judge, Hap Milliken, is as high in our books. He called 'em as he saw 'em, or as commissioner Ed Popham remarked in the heat of the fan reprisal against Milliken's talents. "He's got good eyes, better than mine."

True, one victory doesn't make for a championship. But to the Rocks, the myth is over. The Timmermen can be beaten, and straight team hustle and fight did it. And can do it again.

Solarium Corner

Another Victoria fisherman who has seen a lot of anglers' Times Solarium derbies is Wil Wilson, past president of the Victoria-Saanich Inlet Anglers' Association.

Wil, who was president of the VSIAA for two years before Andy Anderson took over, has been with the association for nine years, and has been on the derby committee every year of that time.

This year, business pressure, plus the busy vice-presidency of the Victoria Shamrocks, does not give Wil as much time as he would like, to sell tickets to the July 22 derby.

He's only managed to get out fishing once this year, too. The derby, co-sponsored by the Times and the VSIAA, hopes to turn over a record $7,000 to the Queen Alexandra Solarium to crippled children.

Wil will take time off to sell you a one-dollar ticket to the fishoff if you phone him at 4-2365.

U.S. Stars Advance at Wimbledon

(UP and CP Dispatches)

WIMBLEDON, England.—Art Larsen of San Leandro, Calif., former U.S. singles champion, reached fourth round of the Wimbledon tennis tournament today with a 6-3, 6-3, 9-7 victory over Jacques Brichant, a Belgian Davis Cupper.

A heavy rain fell approximately an hour before the start of today's matches and although it stopped shortly after noon, the overcast skies threatened to disrupt the day's program.

Lew Hoad of Australia, the tournament's top-seeded player, trounced John Flitt of Los Angeles, 6-3, 6-2, 6-0. Vic Seixas and Hamilton Richardson, America's two remaining seeded players, both won their third round matches. Seixas, the 1953 Wimbledon champion, eliminated a fellow American, Herb Flam of Beverly Hills, Calif., 4-6, 6-1, 6-1, 10-8.

Richardson, a Tulane University graduate with a Rhodes scholarship at Oxford, reached the fourth round with a 6-4, 10-8, 6-3 triumph over Torben Ulrich, the bearded Danish Davis cupper, Richardson is seeded sixth.

Ken Rosewall of Australia, seeded second to Hoad, turned back Italian Davis cupper Orlando Sirola, 7-5, 6-4, 9-7.

PATTY BEATEN A casualty Wednesday was Budge Patty, the United States veteran who now lives in Paris. Patty, ranked No. 4, bowed to Bobby Wilson, a 20-year-old Briton, 12-10, 2-6, 6-3, 6-4.

The last Canadian survivor, Larry Barclay of Montreal and Vancouver, was defeated 6-4, 9-7, 7-5 by Jackie Brichant, a member of the Belgian Davis Cup team.

The top-seeded Australian pair, Hoad and Rosewall, advanced to the third round but Hoad had his difficulties with Trevor Fancutt of South Africa before knocking him off 9-7, 6-3, 7-5 in a knifing display.

LOKOMOTIVS DUE IN B.C. ON AUG. 11

WINNIPEG (CP)—George Anderson, secretary of the Football Association of Canada, said Tuesday negotiations are well under way to have the Moscow Lokomotiv soccer team play in Canada.

He said tentative dates for games are Aug. 2 in Montreal, Aug. 11 in Vancouver and Aug. 18 in Toronto where a Canadian all-star team will be named to play the Russians.

Further games may be possible at some Prairie cities if the dates can be worked in, he said.

Mainland Side Named for Rep Cricket Match

Vancouver will send a strong team to Victoria Monday for the first match of the annual series for the Flumerfelt Cup, emblematic of cricket supremacy in the province.

Many of the mainland stars are well known to cricket followers here.

Monday's match at Beacon Hill Park, with Victoria defending the championship, will start at 10:30. Return match is scheduled for Vancouver, Sept. 3.

Vancouver team follows: S. Hanson (Capt.), J. Abell, D. Black, T. Darling, J. Kyle, G. Nugent, R. Quintrell, J. Robson, F. Sealey, P. Stead, K. Strickland. Umpire is J. Sharp, scorer, G. Berridge.

McKENZIE UPSETS CUDD IN OREGON GOLF

PORTLAND (AP)—Gordon McKenzie, former Canadian junior champion and finalist in the B.C. Amateur this year, was the new favorite in the Oregon amateur golf champions today after Wednesday's upset victory over medalist Bruce Cudd in the second round of the week-long tournament.

McKenzie, 20, Seattle University student from Vancouver, B.C., beat Cudd, 2 and 1, to end the Portland Walker Cupper's bid for his third Oregon amateur title.

Nanaimo Win Streak Ends; Irish Regain Second Place

Shamrocks 17, Nanaimo 12

By DENNY BOYD

Victoria Shamrocks, showing the neatest footwork since Pavlova, managed to stomp on both the Nanaimo Timmermen and the Vancouver Pilseners, all in one jump, Wednesday night at Memorial Arena.

Shamrocks, in defeating Timmermen, 17-12, not only defeated the Nanaimo club for the first time in six tries this season, but handed the Timmermen their second defeat in 16 starts, Pilseners being the only other club to flag down the high-balling up-Islanders.

Rut, more important, the victory made it certain that Shamrocks will be in no worse than a tie for second, no matter what Pilseners manage to do in New Westminster tonight.

After Pils edged Shamrocks in overtime Tuesday night to create a second-place tie, it appeared the Irish could be headed for third place.

But by their well-merited victory Wednesday, Shamrocks pulled two points ahead of Pils again and the Vancouver club can only reforge the deadlock tonight if they come up with two points from New Westminster.

Finally Did Things Right

Victory over Nanaimo was an enervating shot in the arm for the Shamrocks and their fans, who were beginning to wonder at the defending Canadian champions were ever going to beat the high horse-powered club of Harry Wipper.

Timmermen came without Don Ashbee, Spid Morelli and Lisle Scott and did not get the usual concrete goal-tending from Fred Fulla.

But Shamrocks, in the second half, did more things right than they have been doing lately and were steadily pulling away from a Nanaimo club that wilted in the last quarter.

Bill Bamford was the biggest gun in the salvo that shot Timmermen down in flames.

The well-poised Shamrock defenseman cracked three goals past Fulla and added five assists for a tidy eight-point total that raised his scoring sum to 52 points for the season and put him back in third place in the scoring race.

Gill's Four Goals Handy

Al Gill had four goals and one assist, while Whitey Severson threw three goals into the pot to keep things simmering.

Big man for the Timmermen was Bobby Allan, who scored four goals, more than he usually gets from Rock goal-tender Don Hamilton.

Hamilton had a busy night of it as Timmermen played it wide open, firing from well out any time they were unable to crack a Shamrock defence that, at times, was savage.

Timmermen held a slim 3-2 lead at quarter-time but Rocks scooted ahead, 8-6, at the half. It was 12-10 at three-quarter time.

Shamrocks, who lost by one goal the last time the clubs met in Victoria, had it all over the Timmermen in the last quarter, outscoring the T-Men 5-2.

Lacrosse Era Ends, Joe Lally, 87, Dies

CORNWALL, Ont. (CP)—Joe Lally, one of Canada's outstanding lacrosse figures, died Wednesday at the age of 87. Behind him were 57 years as a player, organizer and referee.

He was perhaps best known as a fair and fearless arbiter, who gained the respect and affection of players across Canada.

He was the only man to referee five Minto Cup junior lacrosse championships and after the 1911 finals was presented with a diamond ring by the two teams in recognition of the manner in which he handled the series.

As an organizer, he founded the Canadian Amateur Lacrosse Association in 1925 and served as president of the old National Lacrosse Union.

The Ontario Lacrosse Association made him a life member in 1927.

Three of his relatives also were sport stars. His brother Frank was a lacrosse player, and two nephews, Bill and Bun Cook, hockey wingers with New York Rangers of the National Hockey League.

In later years Lally often said he would like to see the game played as an organized sport in Canadian schools, feeling they could play a great part in lacrosse revival.

But two years ago he said young boys of today are "too lazy" to play lacrosse as it was played in years gone by.

In the early 1900s he took over the lacrosse-stick manufacturing plant established by his brother and operated the firm for 40 years, employing Indian men and women from nearby Indian reservations to make the sticks by hand.

Joe, born Patrick Joseph in Cornwall township in 1916 and 1917, was elected mayor of Cornwall in 1918.

Mountie Pitcher Near Mark

VANCOUVER, B.C. (CP)—Vancouver pitcher Ryne Duren came within two of tying a 50-year-old Pacific Coast League strikeout record as the Mounties took both ends of a double-header from Los Angeles Angels Wednesday. Duren struck out 17 as Vancouver won the second game, 6-2. The Mounties had taken the first game, 4-1, before over 6,000 fans.

Duren, in threatening the PCL strikeout record of 19 set in 1905 by Charles Shields for Seattle against Portland, struck out Angel batters in all of the nine innings.

The double victory assured the Mounties of winning their third straight series and stretched their winning streak to four games for the first time this season.

You bet. Chevrolet is without a doubt Canada's top car buy!

Choose from the high-styled Bel Air series, or from Chevrolet's "middle"-priced "210" series, or from Chevrolet's low, low priced "150" series—any model you pick will prove the point. Chevrolet is lavish with its extra luxuries!

Unbeatable money's worth—that's Chevrolet, in every way! In power, performance, style... or in the "tremendous trifles" that make you so much prouder of your new car... Chevrolet is the biggest, most-beautiful buy you can make! See your nearest Chevrolet dealer without delay.

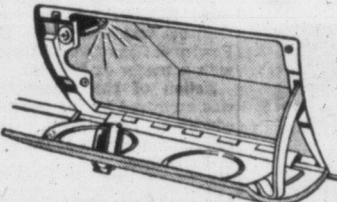

GLEAMING WHEEL COVERS

Full-width chrome-plated wheel discs — a new touch of smartness that adds glittering distinction to every wheel. Typical Bel Air luxury — you pay nothing extra!

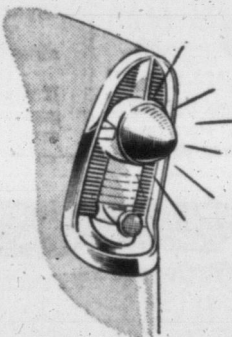

HANDSOME ELECTRIC CLOCK

Easy-to-read, accurate electric clock, framed in a sweep of bright metal. Set elegantly below the fan-shaped radio grille, it's a typical Bel Air luxury — you pay nothing extra!

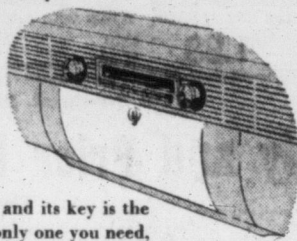

GLOVE BOX LIGHT

Just open the glove compartment and the light snaps on. No more fumbling in dark corners—everything's handy and brightly lit. A typical Bel Air luxury — you pay nothing extra!

DIRECTIONAL SIGNALS

Every Chevrolet comes to you already equipped with self-cancelling directional signals. You pay nothing extra for this safe-driving essential.

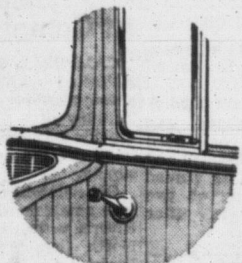

GLOVE BOX LOCK

A useful safeguard, and its key is the ignition key — the only one you need, which also fits the doors and trunk. Chevrolet's special ignition switch permits the car to be started while the key, which locks your valuables, is safely in your pocket.

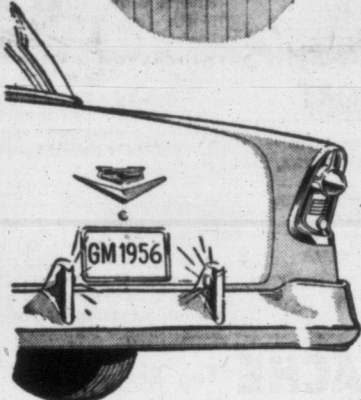

"BABY-GUARD" REAR DOOR LOCKS

With the pushbutton down, the door can't be opened even from the inside! An important protection for small children, so every 4-door Chevrolet has them — you pay nothing extra!

CRANK-OPERATED VENTIPANES

No pushing, no pulling, no slipping, front window ventipanes crank open and shut like every other window. Such a convenience, it's standard now on every Chevrolet — you pay nothing extra!

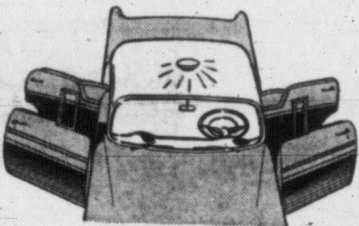

TRUNK LIGHTS IN BUMPER GUARDS

Two lights, set safely and strategically in the bumper guards, brighten every corner of the spacious trunk. All Chevrolets have this luxury — but you pay nothing extra!

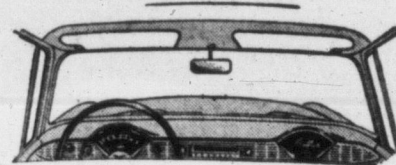

DOMELIGHT SWITCHES ON ALL 4 DOORS

Automatic domelight snaps on not only when you open front doors, but when any door is opened. A very sensible courtesy, and a typical Bel Air luxury — you pay nothing extra!

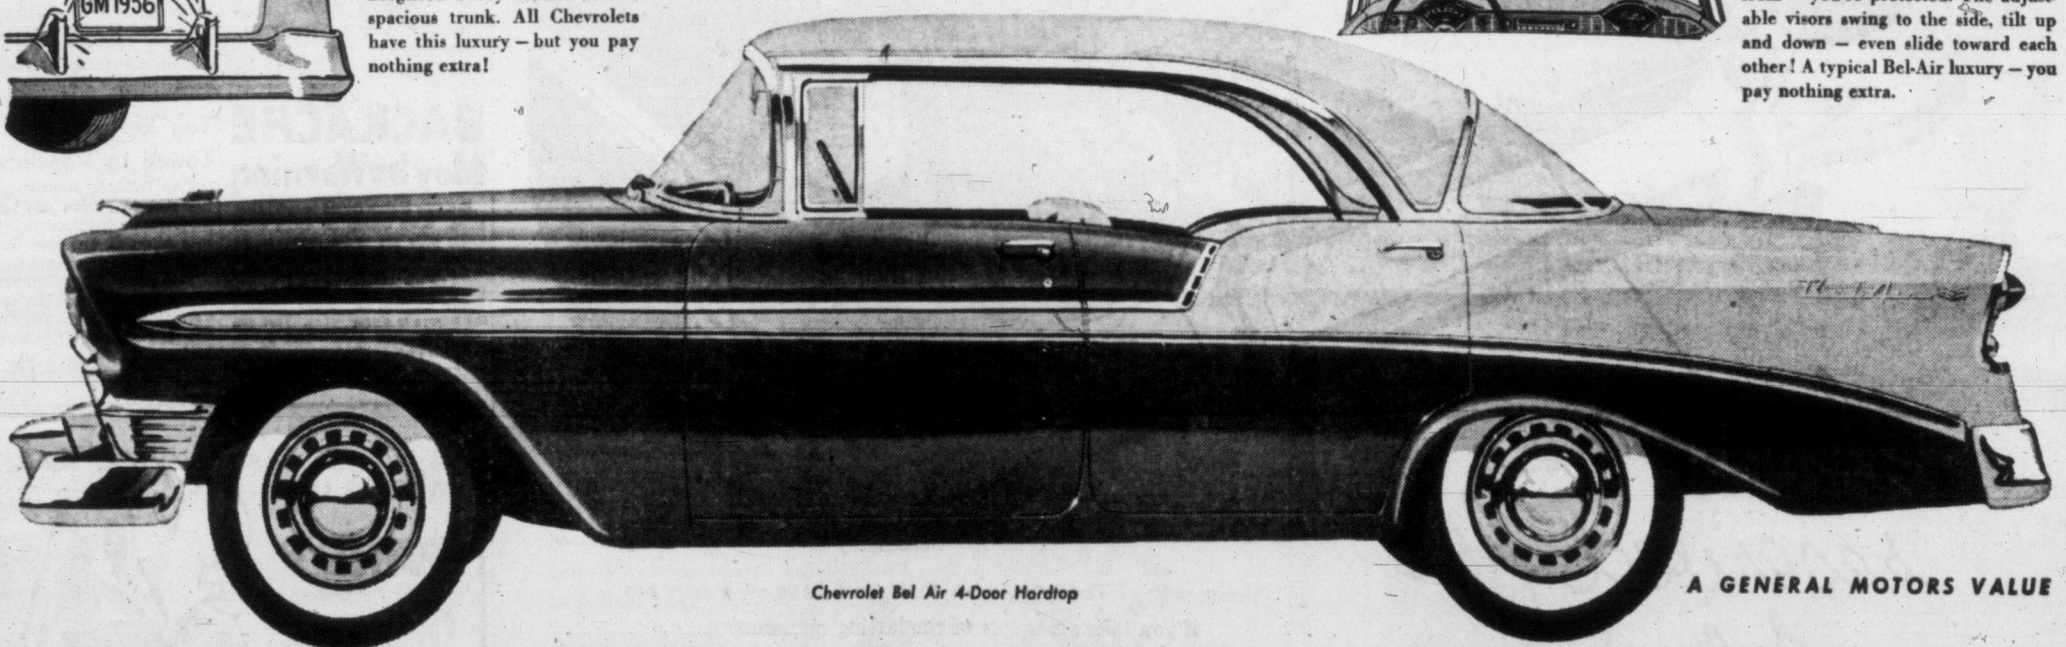

NYLON-AND-VINYL UPHOLSTERY

The most modern, most beautiful, most serviceable material — luxurious as it is practical. Chevrolet made this miracle fabric standard on all models — and you pay nothing extra!

FULLY ADJUSTABLE SUN VISORS

Whatever direction the sun shines from — you're protected. The adjustable visors swing to the side, tilt up and down — even slide toward each other! A typical Bel-Air luxury — you pay nothing extra.

Chevrolet Bel Air 4-Door Hardtop

A GENERAL MOTORS VALUE

Ex-TLC Official Dies in Duncan
DUNCAN (CP)—Ellis More, former foreman of the water-works department and president of the Trades and Labor Council in Calgary, died in hospital Tuesday.

Before settling in Duncan four years ago, he lived in Victoria.

Ladysmith Will Supply Saltair With Water From City Reservoir

LADYSMITH — City council, If sufficient support comes from Saltair residents, construction of a water system can be started within a year.

Under the terms of the agreement, the Saltair board will construct a new steel main from Stocking Lake to the city reservoir, and will extend the intake pipe in Stocking Lake downward to the 29-foot level.

When the new pipe is connected and in service, it will be turned over to the city and the city will supply Saltair with free water to the value of one-half the cost of the main.

FIRST CALL

The city has also agreed to apply for water rights on the additional water which the extended intake will make available and to give Saltair first call on this additional supply.

In this way Saltair will be guaranteed sufficient water in storage to carry it over the dry months of the year, yet control of the Ladysmith water system will remain entirely in the hands of the city.

Construction of the new main and extension of the intake pipe deeper into the lake will eliminate the need for a storage reservoir for Saltair, because the lake itself will serve as a storage reservoir.

SCHOLARSHIP WINNERS

Nanaimo High School student Robert Allen Bell, left, was awarded $250 MacMillan & Bloedel scholarship at graduation ceremonies Wednesday night, and will use money to study as radio and TV technician. Stewart Cecil Clark, right, will use $400 M & B scholarship to help pay way through UBC pharmacy course.

JULY 6 STRIKE VOTE FOR FISH PLANT CREWS

Strike vote by 800 workers in 15 fish and cold storage plants throughout Vancouver Island will be taken July 6, United Fishermen and Allied Workers' Union spokesman Homer Stevens said Wednesday.

Strike deadline is July 14. If it comes off, the strike could mean suspension of work by fishermen, left without workers to handle catches.

The strike would affect B.C. Packers Ltd., operators here.

The union seeks a wage boost of 22 cents an hour. It rejected a conciliation board recommendation of a general increase to male employees equal to 5 per cent the first year and 4 per cent in the second year.

Skipper's Body Recovered From Inlet

PORT ALBERNI (CP)—The body of tugboat skipper William Dearnness, 31, was taken from the Alberni Inlet early Wednesday evening a short while after the one-man tug he had been operating was reported running out of control in the harbor.

He is believed to have slipped or fallen from the craft. Employees of Stone Brothers Ltd., owners of the boat, conducted dragging operations. Mr. Dearnness came from Scotland two years ago to work for the tugboat firm.

Social Credit followers in Alberni constituency will meet Aug. 11 to nominate a candidate for the next provincial election. Noel Murphy, president of the B.C. Social Credit League, will be guest speaker.

At a meeting of the Social Credit Constituency Association here Tuesday night, it was decided to ask the government to investigate the possibility of building a road connecting the Comox and Alberni Valleys via Comox Lake and Beaver Creek Road.

Contingency Fund Pays Extra Cost Of New School

DUNCAN — A Cowichan School District 65 contingency fund will be used to make up the difference between the sum allowed for construction of South Cowichan Junior High School and the amount of the lowest tender.

A school money by-law allocated $225,000 for the school. Contract was awarded to H. E. Fowler & Sons Ltd. of Victoria, with a tender of $249,343.

Action of the school board was approved by the provincial education department. Plans call for completion of the school in December.

Name Streets For Mayors

Two new streets in north Port Alberni will be named after former mayors.

An avenue in a new subdivision between Maitland and Wallace Streets will be named after the late John Kendall and Exton Street will be named after a man who served two terms as mayor shortly after the First World War.

BACKACHE May Be Warning

Backache is often caused by lazy kidney action. When kidneys get out of order, excess acids and wastes remain in the system. Then backache, disturbed rest or that tired-out and heavy-headed feeling may soon follow. That's the time to take Dadd's Kidney Pills. Dadd's stimulates the kidneys to normal action. Then you feel better—sleep better—work better. Get Dadd's Kidney Pills now.

VOGEE REPORT TO CABINET ON FRIDAY

A. E. Vogee, Mount Newton High School principal, may learn Friday the decision of a special three-man board of reference set up to investigate his demotion.

Education Minister Ray Williston said Wednesday the board's report will be submitted to the cabinet for approval Friday.

Mr. Vogee is appealing a school board decision to demote him at the end of the present term because of an alleged lack of leadership and administrative ability.

$2,000 Fire In Mill Bay Residence

MILL BAY—Fire of unknown origin caused an estimated $2,000 damage Tuesday afternoon at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Wolfe on the Shawanigan-Lake-Mill Bay road.

Alarm was sounded by Rolf Osland, Shawanigan Lake, who was driving by the house at 2:30 p.m. and saw smoke pouring from under the eaves.

Mill Bay volunteer firemen, led by assistant chief George Hawk and Charles Pitt, smashed a window to enter the house. Fortunately, the source of the fire, a burning chesterfield, was beside the window and the blaze was quickly extinguished. Mr. and Mrs. Wolfe were absent at the time.

PLASTICS MELT

There was considerable smoke damage to interior furnishings and the floor of the living room was burned, but water damage was kept to a minimum.

Plastic articles in the house had been melted by the intense heat of the fire. Firemen said the house would have burst into flames if it had not been well insulated and the windows tightly closed.

New Water Tank Proposed At Campbell River

CAMPBELL RIVER (CP)—Notice of motion was given at a commissioners' meeting here Tuesday of a water by-law to provide a 150,000-gallon tank to improve the village's water supply.

Officials will meet soon to discuss amalgamation of Campbell River's water system with the North Campbell River Water District and the Willow Point Water District to the south.

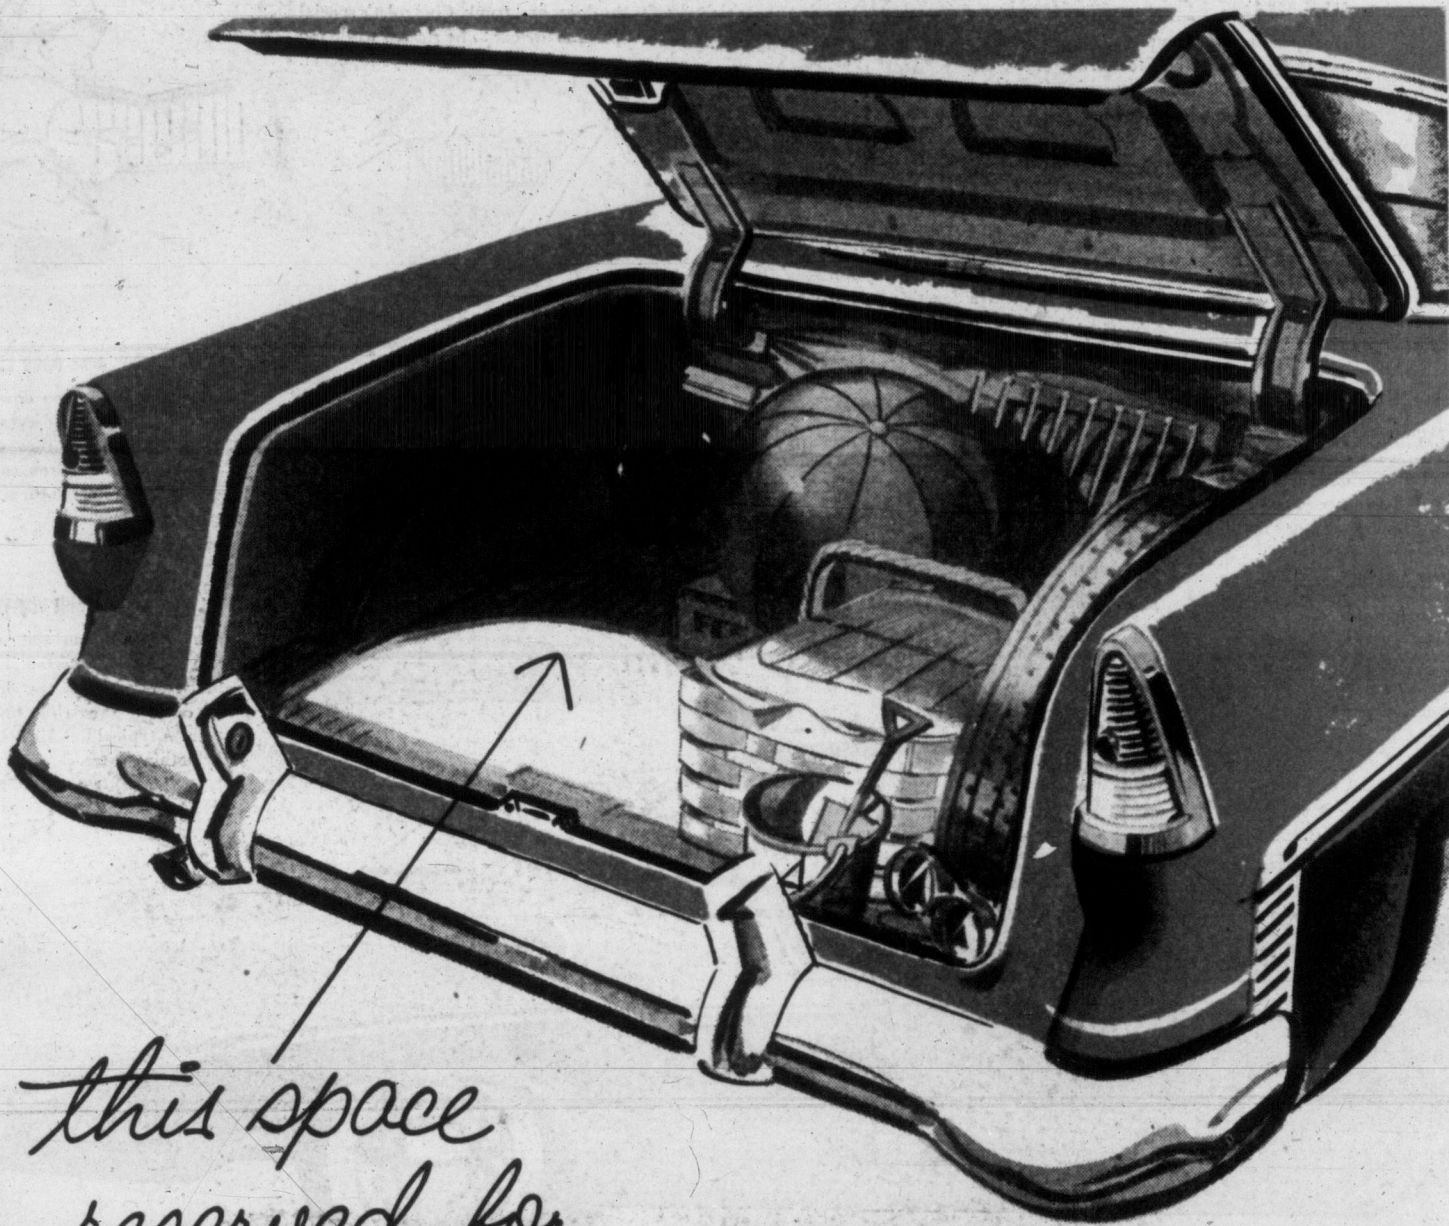

A milk by-law to allow sale of raw milk here passed third reading. Commissioners said they favored pasteurized milk but thought there should be freedom of choice.

The commissioners decided to appeal to the attorney-general for one more RCMP member, bringing the total in the district to 10.

General Construction Co. received a contract to black-top a section of Hospital Road for $900.

Tug Refloated, Towed to Vancouver

CAMPBELL RIVER — The tug Active, which ran aground on Cortes Island early Tuesday, was pumped out and refloated at 9:45 p.m. Wednesday. The crew began an immediate overhaul, and it left for Vancouver today under tow by the tug Island Champion of Victoria.

where's my PARD?

It shouldn't happen to a dog. But it did! This poor pup's Mrs. slipped up somewhere. Arrived home from shopping with no Pard in her shopping bag. And once a dog gets a sniff, a whiff, and a lick of Pard with its meaty-good beef, liver or chicken taste—anything else is... well, unpardonable. Dogs are smart. They know Pard contains all the proteins, minerals and vitamins they need. Don't you get caught without Pard. If your supply is getting low, run to the store and bag some more, quick!

'VARIETY' AT STRATFORD

Henry's a Hit, 'Wives' a Flop

NEW YORK (CP)—Variety, the national trade publication, Wednesday says the Stratford Shakespearean Festival "has a hit on its hands" in Henry V.

The trade paper cites vivid staging and a sterling performance by Christopher Plummer in the title role, then adds:

"Most important it brings English-speaking and French-speaking together for the first time in the land and Virginia."

THE ORIGIN OF BINGO

The game of Bingo as we know it today was originally played in Italy many years ago and was called "Tumbeo." After finding its way across the Atlantic in the early thirties it became known by many other names comprising just five letters but it seems the word "Bingo" has become the most popular. It would certainly appear so here in Victoria considering the many thousands of people who have been to, and enjoyed, the giant games held by the Victoria Kinsmen Club in the Memorial Arena. If you have never played Bingo before then why not give it a try at our third bigger and better game, at the Arena, July 9th, 7.45 p.m. For just $2.00 you can play all 16 games and have the chance of winning and many other fabulous prizes. Remember, all proceeds are for Kinsmen charities, so go on down to either Hudson's Bay Co. or Eaton's and pick up a ticket — or if you live Up-Island, Martin's Men's Wear at Duncan have a good selection of tickets. See you then—

FOUR NEW CARS

Golf-Time Tea Set Reflects Your Interests in Sports

By PENNY SAVER

For the golfing enthusiasts in our midst I've found a new kitchen tea set that is a real charmer. A teapot shaped like a man's head has a perky plaid tam o' shanter plunked on one side, covering the top also and forming the lid. A cream jug is a white pottery golf ball, and the cream jug, a perfectly detailed club bag. You can buy the teapot and cream and sugar set together, at $1.75 each, or the three-piece set for $3.50.

CDA Director

EDMONTON (CP)—Miss Christine Robertson, head dietitian at Royal Jubilee Hospital, Victoria, B.C., Wednesday was named director for British Columbia at meeting of the Canadian Dietetics Association here. Jean C. Macdiarmid, Ottawa, nutritionist for hospitals under the federal veteran's affairs department, Wednesday became president, succeeding Jean King of the T. Eaton Co. of Toronto. Marion Brown of Victoria General Hospital in Halifax was named president-elect.

Mammoth beer glasses with "I Bet You Can't" written on the side may appeal to you of sporting blood. I have never seen such a large glass, and you will be excused if you prefer to use it as a vase. This tall V-shaped glass is $14, and a slightly smaller one, still amazingly outsized, is $7.95. A wine goblet that would easily hold a whole bottle is $7.95, and a smaller one $2.75. Brandy glasses, still too big, are $6.95, and an out-of-proportion beer mug is $3.95. They bear a strong resemblance to punch bowls, and could probably be used as just that for small parties. Each has the wagger written on the side.

After visiting relatives in Scotland, they will meet Mr. and Mrs. Alex McKeachie of Victoria in London, and will travel with them to France.

TODAY'S RECIPE

PRUNES IN PINEAPPLE JUICE
One and one-half cups prunes, 1 cup water, 1 cup pineapple juice, ¼ cup sugar, few grains salt.
Bliss prunes. Add water and pineapple juice, cover and simmer about 45 minutes or until tender. Add sugar and salt for last five minutes of cooking. For best flavor, allow prunes to stand in cooking liquid 24 hours before serving.

TEA FOR BENEVOLENT FUND

Mrs. H. Kerr, left, president of the Companions of the Independent Order of Foresters, Court Victoria, and Mrs. W. H. Butler, general convener, have been working with a committee arranging plans for a strawberry tea in the Douglas Room at Hudson's Bay Company store on Saturday from 2 to 4:30 p.m. Proceeds are for the benevolent fund of the order. Tickets may be obtained at the door or from members.

In Honor of the Bride

Miss Terry Castle was guest of honor last evening when Miss Bim Jackson, Cook street, entertained. Gifts of kitchen items were made to Miss Castle. Miss Diane Elworthy, Vancouver, who was a guest of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Harold Elworthy, last weekend, was hostess at a luncheon in Miss Castle's honor in the private dining room at the Union Club. Twenty guests were present.

Miss Gloria Bennett and Miss Darlyne Robertson were co-hostesses at the former's home, 410 Langford Street, at a surprise miscellaneous shower honoring July bride-elect Miss Joan Hansen. Gifts were concealed in a decorated wishing well and presented to the bride-elect by Miss Lynda Bennett. Miss Hansen was presented with a gardenia corsage and her mother, Mrs. E. V. Hansen, and mother of the groom-elect, Mrs. A. R. Shields, received corsages of carnations in white and pink, respectively. A cake inscribed "Showers of Happiness, Jack and Joan," centred the refreshment table. Guests were Mrs. C. H. Bennett, Mrs. L. E. Cutt, Mrs. Newell, Mrs. E. Ash, Mrs. A. King, Mrs. L. Bond, Mrs. P. Ash, Mrs. R. Bennett, Mrs. E. Chapman, Mrs. J. Harford, Mrs. S. Mitchell, Mrs. G. Cornelius, Mrs. J. Jones and Misses Jean Wicks, Betty Cutt, Veronica Chapman, Betty Heinesen, Helen Cornelius, Shirley Cornelius, Ann Sprinkling and June Bennett.

WHY GROW OLD?

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

There are some important facts which men and women should know about their feet. Few people realize that there are 23 diseases that show symptoms on the feet. Sometimes these foot symptoms are the first to appear.

For instance, swelling of the feet and ankles may come simply from hot weather, poorly fitted shoes, sitting on long trips or standing for long periods of time. On the other hand this can be evidence of diseases such as cirrhosis of the liver, heart or kidney disease, pernicious anemia, and many other serious conditions.

Lesions may come from purely local irritation but may be evidence of systemic disorders. Abnormal redness may be due to chilblains or local irritation but can come from more serious trouble. Pain in the foot, ankle or leg may be the result of faulty posture, improper shoes, a weak arch, a fracture or a sprain, but tuberculosis and arthritis also can cause them.

Pains and cramps can be due to deficiencies in nutrition, weak feet and poor posture, but may result from more serious conditions.

In the case of the diabetic, foot care is of the greatest importance. Weekly inspection of the feet is a "must." Many physicians advise their patients to have their feet checked once a month by a podiatrist or chiropodist.

I do not want this column to frighten you because usually the foot conditions mentioned are harmless except for discomfort. However, it is true that those who specialize in the treatment of feet sometimes see these conditions before the physician who may not have examined the feet.

For foot health remember the following things:

When standing or walking keep your feet in a parallel line, toes pointing forward. When you turn your toes outward you place a strain on your arches. Weak feet often result from this practice. The body weight should fall more on the outside of the feet than on the inside.

The following exercise is a good one: Walk about the room with your weight on the outside borders of your feet. Lift your arches and turn your toes in, grasping the floor with your toes.

Bathe your feet daily. After this use powder on them. Be sure that your stockings are long enough and your shoes long and wide enough. Do not wear shoes without stockings for long at a time.

If you would like to have my exercises for the feet send a stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request for leaflet No. 14 to Josephine Lowman in care of this newspaper.

Between Ourselves

By ELIZABETH FORBES

Young friends of mine with a small family have recently become fairly consistent bird-watchers. Reason being that when they moved into their new home in a wooded acreage the two young sons of the family clamored for bird-houses in the trees around the home.

As far as my friends were concerned it started out to be a pastime for the children but the project somehow turned into an everyday interest for the parents who now greet you with a new bird story every time you enter their door.

Best one to date proves that in the bird world there is a certain similarity with the human way of life and that some sort of thought process motivates emotions such as anger, hatred and revenge.

You don't believe me? Then, read the next few paragraphs. If they don't turn you into an amateur bird watcher, I miss my guess.

The first bird-house was erected close to the patio in the back garden. It was a little lopsided and the door certainly was too large but a Mr. and Mrs. Wren seemed to like its looks and quickly moved in. There was great excitement as the dainty little birds set up housekeeping.

No sooner were they settled, however, than the villain of the story, in the feathers of a sparrow, fixed an eye on the bird-house.

Because the door was over-size he was able to get in. When Mr. and Mrs. Wren were away he pulled their tiny nest to pieces, tipped it out on the ground and proceeded to do a spot of claim jumping.

Mr. and Mrs. Sparrow were now in possession and they set to work to build a nest. Construction included pieces of tissue and kleenex the young sons of the family had dropped near the patio, which the sparrows somehow tore into large strips and carried up to the bird-house in the tree.

The little wrens? They twittered a bit, of course, but being the smaller of the two couples, they moved off peaceably enough to another tree. The incident seemed closed.

'An Eye for An Eye', Said Father Wren

Only seemed to be, however, for a few days later my friends were startled by a commotion going on at the bird-house. Mr. and Mrs. Sparrow were out, and who should be in the door but Mr. Wren. His feathers were ruffled, his tiny eyes were bright and he was twittering and chattering excitedly. Not only that he was working like a madman. Pulling the nest out of the house, breaking it with his beak, tossing the shredded tissue and the kleenex to the four winds.

Every once in awhile he would stop, look around to make sure that Mr. and Mrs. Sparrow were not returning, then dig in again, flinging pieces of nest and swear words around in ordered confusion.

He was working against time, my friends said. That was easy to see. And he was bound and determined to finish the job.

When the last twig and bit of paper had been successfully pulled from the bird-house, Mr. Wren stood for a moment on its door-sill. He shook himself, smoothened down his feathers, looked proudly at the shreds of paper littering the branches of the tree; twittered a few last chirps that sounded to my friends very much like, "Take that! You so-and-so!"

Then he was off, with a streak of speed to his own bird-house, in a tree on the other side of the patio. This time, with a tiny round door that Mr. Sparrow couldn't begin to get through.

What did the sparrows do? They flew around excitedly for a few minutes when they returned; chirped a few hard words about small birds in general then flipped their tail feathers and flew off to set up housekeeping somewhere else.

Since then, my friends say, the lopsided bird-house with the too-big door has been vacant. All the other houses are filled but somehow this one is being shunned. Even the sparrows are ignoring it.

A DISTINGUISHED VISITOR

Mme. Lacoste came by air to Victoria this afternoon with her husband, His Excellency Francis Lacoste, Ambassador for France. They will be guests at Government House until Saturday. His Honor the Lieutenant-Governor and Mrs. Ross are entertaining with a dinner party on Friday evening in honor of the visitors.

Bouffant Bridal Gown Worn in Candlelight

Four tiers of misting white nylon net over ivory satin created a bouffant bridal gown for Audrey Margaret Goodmanson, when she became the bride of William Donald (Bud) Jones in a Saturday ceremony at Centennial United Church. An embossed redingote posed over the skirt and she wore a headdress of mother-of-pearl which held her fingertip veil. She carried a white Bible mounted with a white orchid and Stephanotis.

Rev. Douglas B. Carr conducted the ceremony for the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. R. Goodmanson, 1122 View street, and the son of Mr. and Mrs. Wilfred Jones of Victoria.

The church was decorated with blue and white, delphiniums for the candlelit ceremony and pews were marked by clusters of orange blossoms and white asters. Mrs. Margaret Wilms-hurst played traditional organ music and soloist, Jim Donaldson, sang "Always."

Matron of honor, Mrs. Allan J. Moir, sister of the bride, wore a gown of pink nylon net with matching bolero. Bridesmaids, Mrs. William E. Heighes, sister of the bride, and Mrs. Ronald K. Smith wore gowns of pale orchid nylon net with matching boleros. All carried pale pink feathered carnation bouquets in cascade design, and wore matching hair bandeaux.

Junior bridesmaids, Misses Sandra and Bonnie Moir, nieces of the bride, wore frocks of pale pink nylon sheer and carried colonial bouquets of pale pink carnations and blue delphiniums, with matching hair bandeaux. Best man was William E. Heighes, brother-in-law of the bride.

New Accomodation Asked for Prisoners

KINGSTON, Ont. (CP) — The Canadian Federation of University Women resolved Wednesday to ask provincial governments to provide accommodation for federal women prisoners from their areas.

The federation's council, meeting at Queen's University, said that under provincial custody women's offenders would live closer to their families, making rehabilitation easier after release.

Some provinces also had facilities superior to those of the Kingston penitentiary. Special treatment for narcotic addicts, which comprised one-half of the population in the women's penitentiary, were available in British Columbia. Another resolution called for federation members to study treatment for criminal sexual psychopaths.

The 75 delegates representing more than 7,000 women also recommended that federal grants to universities be substantially increased and that there be a more equitable distribution of these grants. Doris B. Saunders of Winnipeg is president.

Andy sends a complete, 15-volume set of Compton's Pictured Encyclopedia to Dick Cromwell, aged eight, of Spokane, Wash., for his question:

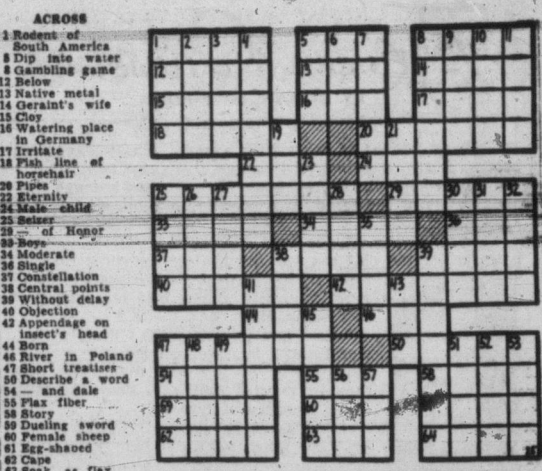

Do Bees Have Bones?
Without your bones, you would flop in a heap on the floor. You couldn't walk or move even a finger. Our boney inside skeleton is our stiffening. The bones are jointed to move this way and that. We move them when we order our muscles to pull at them. We are so used to them that it is hard for us to imagine how any creature could possibly manage without bones.
But it can be done. In fact, most of the creatures in the world have no inside bones to keep them stiff. Nature has a number of ways to make bodies without inside bones. For instance, the soft parts of the body can be wrapped in a boney outside shell. This is the body plan of clams and oysters. Or the soft body parts may be encased in tough outside skin. Bees and all insects are built on this second plan. Their soft insides are encased in tough, pliable coats. These boneyless plans, however, are only good for making very small bodies. If you notice, the bees, the wasps and all other insects are among the world's smallest animals. Even a lobster, who has a shell instead of inside bones, is not a large animal.
The bee's body is built in three sections. There is a head, a chest called a thorax and an abdomen. The head and thorax have stiffer coatings than does the abdomen. The head needs protection and the thorax must be sturdy enough to support the bee's busy wings. The abdomen covering is softer, more pliable and covered with cheerfully striped fur. But it is tough enough to keep her small insides in place.
Walking without inside bones is quite a problem. But nature has a plan for solving even that. The pretty bee has six legs on which to stand and walk. She can even use them as hands and arms. For they are fitted with all kinds of tiny tools. She can stuff pollen into her marketing basket. She can comb, clean and preen herself. She can scrape wax and tamp down beed.

All this is done with joints--outside joints. The hard casing on the legs is ringed with softer skin. At these points the little bee can bend her legs much as you can bend knees and elbows. Watch a bee or any insect standing. The legs are bent in sections at certain angles. Certain insects even have jointed abdomens. You can see a row of hard bands that seem to overlap each other. Actually, they are divided with soft bands of tough skin. This plan gives the insect a more movable abdomen. The plan is almost as remarkable as the one for jointed legs. But all insects do not have abdomens in these sections. Bees and all other insects belong to the huge tribe called Arthropoda--which means the jointed-legged ones.

Andy sends a Hammond International World Globe to Christopher Gluck, age eight, of Rochester, N.Y., for his question:
Why doesn't gravity pull the moon down?
We are told that the force of gravity holds us on the face of the earth. It pulls down a falling stone and the raindrops. Birds fight against gravity to stay in the air. So do airplanes. Birds and planes can defeat the pull of gravity for a little while. Our big round moon knows how to fight against the pull of earth's gravity all the time.
Fix a ball on the end of a string and swing it round and round your head. You can feel the ball-pulling to break away from the string... But some water in a pail and swing it around. The water will not spill out while the pail is spinning. It will stay pressed in the bottom of the pail. You are playing with centrifugal force. This powerful force operates on things spinning around. It gives them power to pull away from the centre.
Now the moon is always spinning around the earth. This gives it centrifugal force to pull away from the earth. The earth's gravity is always pulling at the moon but it cannot pull it all the way down because the moon pulls back with centrifugal force. The two forces balance out to keep our moon just where it is in the sky, so far and no farther.

my side of the story

A Continuing Series
By THE DUCHESS OF WINDSOR

After a week Herman and Katherine Rogers joined me and we started the trip north to Balmoral. David was already there. On the way I stopped off in London long enough to see my solicitor, Mr. Goddard.

He had at the end of July begun divorce proceedings against Ernest. He had decided that the case should be tried out of London and his choice was the Ipswich Assizes, in the county of Suffolk.

Mr. Goddard's reasoning was that the case would attract less attention in a quiet provincial town and could be disposed of more expeditiously and smoothly than in the crowded Divorce Court of London.

This arrangement, however, would necessitate my taking residence within the jurisdiction of the court, and my solicitor had already picked a cottage, called Beech House, near Felixstowe, for the purpose.

Next day we took the train to Aberdeen and David met us at the station, a thoughtful act towards me that was to drive another spike in the growing structure of misunderstanding.

Some months before, the Aberdeen authorities had asked him to dedicate some hospital buildings, but, being still in deep mourning for his father, he had declined, and had delegated the duty to his brother, the Duke of York.

Mistaken Idea

By another of these unfortunate coincidences, my arrival was on the day of the ceremony, and many Scots, on learning of the King's presence in Aberdeen, chose to misconstrue his absence from the ceremony as being due to his desire to meet me. This mischance was to be typical of the way everything went from this point on.

My stay at Balmoral was important chiefly because it gave me an insight into a side of David's life of which until then I had had only glimpses.

Here in the grey-turreted pseudo-Gothic castle David had continued the tradition of his dynasty, a way of life that had remained unchanged for nearly a century.

By custom the King at Balmoral surrounds himself with the age-old associates of the Sovereign: the Prime Minister, the Cabinet Ministers, and friends of the Royal Family. David, in his first and only experience of being host there, carried on this tradition.

Among his guests were the Duke and Duchess of Marlborough, the Duke and Duchess of Buccleuch and Queensberry, the Duke and Duchess of Sutherland, and the Earl and Countess of Rosebery, who—like their ancestors before them—had been perennial guests there.

Other members of the Royal Family gathered at the Castle, or, as in the case of the Dukes of York and Gloucester at their lodges, Birkhall and Abergeldie Mains, near by.

Eyebrows Raised

However, David's talent for innovation persuaded him that these rather static groupings list was duly published in the Court Circular there were raised eyebrows from Inverness to Penzance.

For myself, I can only say that I enjoyed every minute of my stay.

Before leaving on the Nahlin cruise, I had taken a charming furnished house at 16 Cumberland Terrace, Regent's Park. Because my lease did not start for a week or so after my return from Balmoral in October, I stayed at Claridges.

David, too, was in the process of re-establishing himself. His mother had finally completed her move into Marlborough House, the Duke and Duchess of Gloucester had taken over York House, and David, none too happily, was installed at Buckingham Palace.

It was necessary for me to go to Felixstowe some weeks in advance of the hearing of my divorce petition. George and Kitty Hunter had kindly offered to stay with me during the period of waiting, and early in October we drove down in my Buick.

My first glimpse of the little house at Felixstowe was dismaying. It was tiny; there was barely room for the three of us, plus a cook and maid, to squeeze into it. There is nothing drearier than a seaside resort town after the season.

The only sound was the melancholy boom of the sea breaking on the deserted beach and the rustling of the wind around the shuttered cottages.

The date for the hearing had now been set for Oct. 27, and while the imminence of the case was already producing profound repercussions in the inner circles of the government and the palace secretariat, not the slightest hint of this distant concern penetrated Felixstowe. When the Hunters and I walked down to the town for the mail and the newspapers, not a head turned at our passage. While this atmosphere did not make the tedium of waiting easier to endure, it had a lulling effect upon my inner anxiety as to the outcome of the proceedings.

FRIDAY: The ordeal of divorce.

TAKE SHELL'S BETTER DRIVING QUIZ NO. 10 TO MAKE YOUR DOMINION DAY TRIP SAFER

Do you know what to do about these signs of driving fatigue?

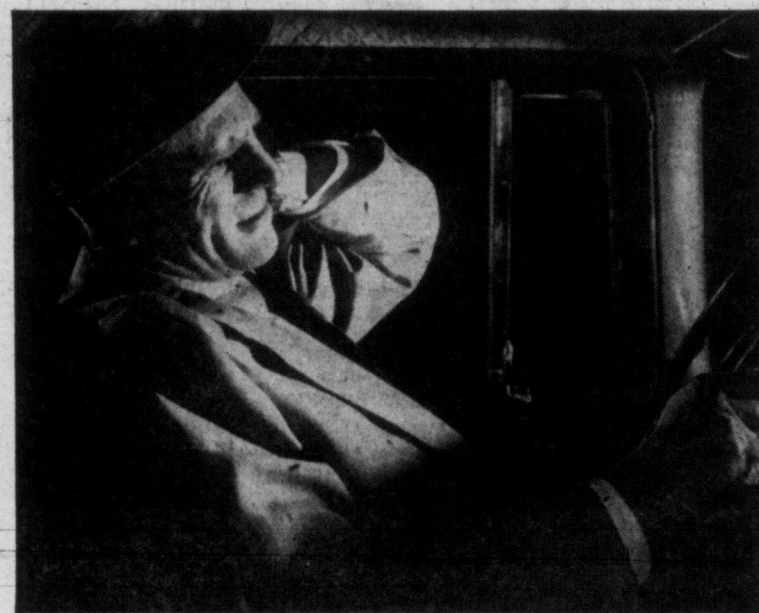

1. You have to brake suddenly because you're closer to the car ahead than you thought. Something has happened to your ability to judge speed and distance.

2. Your eyes tend to fix on one spot. It's an effort to check conditions on all sides out of the corners of your eyes. Maybe your eyes water or burn.

3. You may get the type of headache that sometimes accompanies over-tired eyes. And often you'll find yourself squinting and straining to see clearly.

4. Your legs and arms feel stiff. There's a crick in your neck. Aches and pains make you a less attentive driver.

Road naps lead to rude awakenings!

HOW TO BEAT DRIVING FATIGUE ON YOUR VACATION

STOP DRIVING! All these symptoms tell you that your ability to drive safely has been seriously reduced by weariness.

If you absolutely must drive on a bit farther, here are some tips for meeting the situations shown above.

1. Stay well behind other cars to avoid coming up on them faster than your tired senses notice.
2. Occasionally make a point of looking away from the road for a second, then looking back. Don't stare down the white line.
3. Pull off the road and rest your eyes for at least a few minutes.
4. Pull off the road and get out of the car. Walk around, breathe in the fresh air. And don't drive much farther!

You can avoid road-weariness by planning your trip wisely. Don't make daily stretches too long. Stop early while accommodations are still easy to find. Don't drive long stretches after eating heavy meals.

Roads. Long, straight super-highways to whisk you miles ahead. Quiet, winding lanes that tempt you to ramble off your course for an hour. All kinds of roads in our great transportation system. And it's all yours to enjoy. Want to go where you've never been? Turn the ignition key and step on the accelerator...gently. Gently, because safe trips are happiest. Don't drive too fast. Don't drive too far in one stretch. Shell urges you to take time to enjoy your trip. And come home safely.

WIRE BRIEFS

Ferry Needs Repairs

VANCOUVER (CP) — The Princess of Vancouver, latest of the CPR car ferries on the west coast, may be laid up after the holiday weekend for engine repair. Tiny cracks were found in the upper half of the crank case of one engine during annual inspection last weekend.

Shepilov in Athens

ATHENS, Greece (Reuters) — Russian Foreign Minister Dmitri Shepilov arrived here from Beirut today for what a Greek government spokesman called "very important talks."

Bomb American's Car

NICOSIA, Cyprus (AP) — A home-made bomb exploded here today in the gasoline tank of an automobile owned by an American. No one was hurt and damage was slight.

Former Actor Dies

VANCOUVER (CP) — John Joseph Atherton, customs examiner for the port of Vancouver, founder of the weekly newspaper, Creston, B.C., "Review," and former actor, died in Shaughnessy Military Hospital here Wednesday. He was 85.

Sudan Break-Up

KHARTOUM, The Sudan (CP) — Eleven National Unionist party members of the Sudanese Parliament broke away Tuesday night to join the newly formed New People's Democratic party. Observers said the coalition government of Ismail el Azhari is expected to fall within the next 10 days.

Diesel Firemen Not Needed, Says Railman

OTTAWA (CP) — J. N. Fraine of Toronto, general manager of the CPR's eastern Canada operations, said today he neither wants nor needs firemen on CPR diesel freight locomotives.

"They service no useful purpose," he told a three-man conciliation board attempting to settle a wage dispute between the company and the Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen and Enginemen.

The union, which has warned it will launch a countrywide strike if the CPR eliminates the fireman's job, is demanding a 25-cent wage boost and other benefits for the 3,900 firemen employed by the CPR.

The CPR wants to eliminate these employees from freight and yard service and reduce their pay by about one-half on passenger service.

READY TO TALK 'LIBERATION'

Chou Urges Nationalists To Return to Red China

PEIPING (Reuters) — Chou Enlai, Chinese Communist premier, today offered to discuss with the Formosa Nationalist authorities "steps and conditions for the peaceful liberation" of the island.

The Chinese Communist premier was reviewing the world situation in a speech to the National Peoples Congress.

He touched on colonialism, the Cold War, United States policy and relations between East and West.

Chou said his government repeatedly had pointed out there were two possible ways for the Chinese people to "liberate" Formosa—by war or by peaceful means—and that the Chinese people would seek to use peaceful means as far as possible.

"INEXORABLE TREND"

"Since we issued the slogan of striving to liberate Taiwan (Formosa) by peaceful means, many military and political personnel in Taiwan and abroad have expressed their patriotic desires."

"We believe that those who wish to promote the peaceful liberation of Taiwan and the complete unification of our motherland will grow in number from day to day. This is an inexorable trend," Chou said.

Chou said he hoped the Chinese Nationalists on Formosa would send representatives to Peiping or other appropriate places to begin talks on the Formosa question.

Chou assured all Kuomintang military and political personnel on Taiwan, whose families were on the mainland, they could communicate with their relatives and friends, and added: "They can also return to the mainland for short visits to their relatives and friends. We are prepared to give them all kinds of facilities and assistance."

If responsible officials on Formosa had doubts "they can send people to the mainland to find out the situation. We guarantee them freedom of movement in coming and going."

Turning to the international situation, Chou said the cold war had become increasingly unpopular in the last year. Great progress had been made in increasing understanding between countries.

"Although the United States is still unwilling to abandon its cold war policy, the great majority of nations believe that peaceful co-existence is not only necessary but possible," he said.

Furthermore, the court said a taxpayer can't set up a personal, one-man labor union and then deduct dues paid to it on his income tax return.

"Confused thinking," the court told Willard M. Bostick Jr., tool and dye maker of Maple Heights, Ohio, who tried both gimmicks.

Bostick, who filed his 1951 tax return in Maryland when he lived in that state, reported total income for the year of $5,045.36. He claimed a deduction of $93,053.62 for "loss of labor" and $3,000 "union dues, L.A.W.S."

Bostick, who handled his own case before the court, said "L.A.W.S." stood for "Lonely American Workman's Society." He was the only member.

He told the court he determined union dues should be $3,000, then put that amount in a separate billfold.

In a statement attached to his return, Bostick explained he calculated his time and effort for 1951 were worth $98,098.98. So he deducted the $5,045.36 of actual income and claimed a "loss of labor" of $93,053.62.

The court said Bostick will have to compute his tax return over again.

Alert Pilot's Tip Brings Rescue to 3

Clung Four Hours To Capsized Boat In Active Pass Area

VANCOUVER (CP) — Two men clung for four hours to their overturned fishboat near Active Pass today before they were rescued by an RCAF amphibian plane. Just as they were saved, the 46-foot boat sank under them.

A third man managed to get into a tiny dinghy, without oars, when the Tm Alone III overturned in Georgia Strait, 40 miles southwest of here. He was picked up by the tug River Ace.

Those rescued were Norman Ryall, 43, owner of the Tm Alone III, Ron R. Innas, and engineer Stewart Doig.

SPOTTED FROM AIR

The trio probably owe their lives to the alertness of Trans-Canada Air Lines pilot Captain E. L. Buchanan, who spotted Ryall and Innas clinging to the overturned boat while on a dawn flight from Victoria to Vancouver.

Capt. Buchanan radioed news of the fishermen's plight a few minutes after the boat put out a distress call. It was bound from Tofino to Vancouver with a load of crab.

The River Ace was diverted to the scene and picked up Doig.

CHOPPY SEA

Before the tug could reach the overturned fishboat, an RCAF Sea Island, piloted by Flt. Lt. Andy Carswell, acting commanding officer of 121 Communications and Rescue Flight at Sea Island here, landed on the choppy water.

A 20-mile-an-hour wind was blowing at the time. Just as Flt. Lt. Carswell set his amphibian down, the Tm Alone sank beneath the waves. Ryall and Innas struggled to keep afloat until ropes could be thrown to them.

The two men were flown to Sea Island, given an examination at the medical centre there and taken to their homes in an Air Force ambulance.

They suffered no ill effects from their prolonged stay in the cold water.

RIOT REPORTED IN POLAND

WARSAW (Reuters) — Shots were fired when Polish rioters gathered outside police headquarters in the city of Poznan today and tanks were called into the city streets, it was reported here today.

A crowd of rioters attacked the headquarters of the Polish United Workers (Communist) party and pulled down a Russian flag in a demonstration against low wages, the sources said.

INFANT KILLED IN HAPPY VALLEY

A 17-month-old infant girl was killed this morning in an accident in the Happy Valley area involving a motor vehicle.

The accident took place about 10 a.m. RCMP from the Belmont detachment who are investigating believe it occurred in a driveway off Latoria Road.

The dead child is Rae Greenough, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. B. Greenough.

She was rushed to St. Joseph's Hospital by private car and pronounced dead on arrival.

Police investigation was hampered because they were not notified until the vehicle believed to have been involved had been moved. It is thought the driver was unaware the child had been struck.

COUNCIL SPLIT

By-Election Bid Made in Saanich

(See Also Page 15.)
A unique plan of taking to Saanich voters the controversial question of appointing a new municipal administrator was proposed today by Councillor J. Ronald Grant.

Coun. Grant, who favors the move, offered to resign his council seat if one of the opponents of the plan would do the same.

They would then find a third candidate who favors the scheme and the three candidates would stand in a by-election for the two seats.

If Coun. Grant and the new man were elected it would give the proponents a council majority, instead of a minority as was disclosed in a 4-3 council vote Wednesday night.

If Coun. Grant and the candidate put up by the opposing faction were re-elected, the situation would remain as it is now with the administrator's appointment rejected.

"I'll put my weight behind a candidate prepared to back appointment of a municipal administrator," Coun. Grant said, "and let the people decide."

"We have found it increasingly difficult to carry out the program on which we campaigned, namely, reorganization of municipal administration, and this can't be accomplished without appointment of a municipal administrator."

LONDON (UP) — Foreign ministers of the North Atlantic Alliance will meet in Paris in mid-September to discuss an increase in NATO's political powers, it was learned today.

Smoking—Cancer Link Probed By Ottawa Survey

By VICTOR J. MACKIE
Times Ottawa Correspondent

OTTAWA — A mass survey of Canadians in an attempt to ascertain what relation, if any, there is between smoking and lung cancer, has been undertaken by the department of national health.

The smoking habits of the people of this country are only a part of the study.

In its novel experiment in the study of disease the department is asking a large number of Canadians where and how they have been living over the past 20 years and something about their personal habits, officials of the department announced today.

58,000 ANSWERS

A trial run was conducted earlier this year. The questionnaire was sent to some 5,000 persons. The department was encouraged by the good response, some 3,000 questionnaires being returned.

This confirmed the department's decision to proceed with the large-scale mailing program to some 175,000 Canadians. Approximately 100,000 questionnaires have been mailed to date and the department has had replies from over 58,000—nearly a 60 per cent response, which is regarded as "excellent."

The questionnaire devotes most of its enquiries to cigarette, cigar, and pipe smoking. It asks Canadians whether they have smoked more than 100 cigarettes during their lifetimes, or more than 10 cigars, or more than 20 pipefuls of tobacco. It also asks if they inhale.

The questionnaire is going to all parts of Canada and to citizens in all types of occupations and circumstances.

Health officials have asked all receiving the enquiries to regard their answers as a contribution to national well-being. Information provided is to be treated as confidential as far as the individual is concerned and is required solely for statistical purposes, officials said.

ROCK 'N' ROLL GETS 6,000 IN VANCOUVER

VANCOUVER (BUP) — More than 6,000 Vancouver teen-agers shook, rattled 'n' rolled to the rock 'n' roll music of Wild Bill Haley and his Comets Wednesday night.

Several city policemen and policewomen attended the three-hour dance.

University of British Columbia psychology professor Edro Signori said the crowd is "hypnotized" by the band's music. He explained it is the musicians themselves who work on the youngsters' basic emotions and break down all their barriers of common-sense.

Boy Dies After Blow From Stone

COCHRANE, Alta. (CP) — A 12-year-old Cochrane boy, struck on the head by a stone, died in his home here.

It is believed Harold Melvin Steeves was playing with some friends about 10 p.m. pitching stones. One of the rocks struck the boy above the left ear.

When he came home he complained of a headache and nausea. He was put to bed. About 6 a.m. his parents noticed his breathing was labored and called an ambulance.

The boy was dead when the ambulance arrived.

PRAYER FOR TODAY

GOD OF THE SUMMER SKIES, the quiet woods and the murmuring seas we thank Thee today for the joy of children leaving their studies. May the long days and weeks ahead bring them new and happy experiences in the glow of sun and laughter. And may we have the wisdom and patience to share, day by day, in their delight; through Jesus Christ. Amen.

Electrocution May Not Mean Electric Chair

Man Can Be Executed Lying Down Or Standing, Says Committee Head

By VICTOR MACKIE
Times Ottawa Correspondent

OTTAWA—A "chair" would not necessarily be used to carry out capital punishment should the government accept and implement the special committee's recommendation that electrocution be substituted for hanging in Canada.

Harold Winch Disappointed

OTTAWA — Harold Winch (CCF, Vancouver East), a member of the joint committee of the Senate and Commons on corporal and capital punishment, expressed bitter disappointment today over the report of the committee. He said he was convinced that "an unbiased study of the evidence presented over two years conclusively proves that capital punishment is not a deterrent" and that it should be abolished.

Mr. Winch added, "I am convinced that after almost three years of sittings this committee is of the almost unanimous opinion that capital punishment is going to go. I am bitterly disappointed that the committee felt it is necessary to follow public opinion rather than lead it."

Don Brown (Lib., Essex West), chairman of the committee, said he believed "the committee has led public opinion." He contended, "We have brought out the facts. Now we'll give the public time to consider them."

Easter Won't Seek Re-Election To Baptist Post

First Baptist Church minister, Rev. G. R. Easter, leaves today to attend the Baptist Union of Western Canada convention which opens in Edmonton Friday.

Rev. Easter indicated he will not run for re-election as president of the Baptist Union.

"Headquarters is too far away," he said. "I can't do justice to my own church." Other Victoria Baptist delegates, now arrived in Edmonton, are Rev. J. E. Smith, Emmanuel Baptist, and Mrs. Smith; Mrs. N. B. Phillips, president of the Church Women's Missionary Society in B.C., and Mrs. Maren Holm, First Baptist Church.

OTTAWA PLANS TO PROBE HOXSEY 'CURE'

OTTAWA (RUP)—Health Minister Paul Martin promised the Commons yesterday to investigate and report on a cancer treatment which had been declared worthless by the U.S. government.

C. E. Johnston (SC—Bow River) asked Martin if the treatment, known as the Hoxsey treatment, was being advertised in Canada with the approval of the federal government.

B.C. to Pick Most Humane Death Penalty

KELOWNA, B.C. (CP)—Attorney-General Robert Bonner says British Columbia will try to adopt the most humane method of capital punishment if the criminal code is amended to provide alternative methods.

Mr. Bonner was commenting on a special parliamentary committee report Wednesday recommending that the gas chamber or electrocution be substituted for hanging and that capital punishment be abolished for those under 18.

Mr. Bonner did not express a personal opinion, but said it is the considered opinion of the legislature that capital punishment is not favored.

ROAD ACTION DEMANDED
MISSION CITY—Faster action by the provincial government on the proposed North Shore highway was demanded here by delegates to the meeting of the Fraser North Shore Highway Association.

Mystery of the Missing Lid

The men turned over the garage can upside down, placed the cover on top & left a note saying that as the bottom fell out... it was this. The G.F. who pays close attention to all the Ada, went to town, and got a new one... the giant economy size, about $1.50, plus tax. Our old one was quite smallish, with 3 wooden legs. I hated to dump the used ketchup bottles & stuff in this new gleaming giant. It was so clean & unusual, so I dropped the lid of the busted one into it, thinking it would last twice as long with this double-bottom effect. Then I went about putting weeds, but came back again. & for some reason I'll never know, I took the lid off our extra can (it has a swing handle on it like a pail) & forgetting about where I put the other, I dropped that lid in too. Just to see if it, too, would fit I guess. The G.F. opened the window & asked me to burn some garbage & newspapers, so I put them in the can the garbage men were disgusted with, but flames shot so high, I looked about for the lid. You guessed it... I couldn't find it... so ran for the hose. Then I scratched my head, & told "her" "now just HOW can a garbage lid disappear right out of sight?" Of course it wasn't in her new one... we could both see the one in there, with the swing handle on top. "Are you positive?" she repeated, "you had all 3 lids?" "Sure I'm sure... beginning to believe in flying saucers or something." When she turned the $1.50 job upside down and hauled it out... down you guessed it... BOTH lids fell out. The other. If YOU'VE confused reading this... just imagine how I was... thru it all.

Crisis in U.K. Car Industry Hits Eden as PMs Confer

LONDON (Reuters) — Prime Minister Eden and his cabinet are expected today to consider the crisis in the British automobile industry which was pin-pointed Wednesday by the biggest mass lay-off of workers since the war. Union leaders and workers were discussing anxiously today the three blows which fell within a few hours:

1. The announcement by the British Motor Corporation that 6,000 of its 55,000-strong labor force will be laid off Friday and other workers will be placed on a three or four-day week.

2. A statement from the Rover Motor Company of Birmingham that nearly 1,000 workers will be placed on a four-day week, because of a "normal seasonal recession in car purchasing."

3. The breaking off by the Standard Motor Company of Coventry of negotiations (over featherbedding) which leaders of nine unions had hoped might save the jobs of 1,200 workers due for dismissal next week.

The British Motor Corporation blamed its dismissals on increased government purchase tax, new instalment buying restrictions and rising wages and costs.

Golf-Time Tea Set Reflects Your Interests in Sports

By PENNY SAVER

For the golfing enthusiasts in our midst I've found a new kitchen tea set that is a real charmer. A teapot shaped like a man's head has a perky plaid tam o' shanter plunked on one side, covering the top also and forming the lid. A cream jug is a white pottery golf ball, and the cream jug, a perfectly detailed club bag. You can buy the teapot and cream and sugar set together, at $1.75 each, or the three-piece set for $3.50.

CDA Director

EDMONTON (CP)—Miss Christine Robertson, head dietitian at Royal Jubilee Hospital, Victoria, B.C., Wednesday was named director for British Columbia at meeting of the Canadian Dietetics Association here. Jean C. Macdiarmid, Ottawa, nutritionist for hospitals under the federal veteran's affairs department, Wednesday became president, succeeding Jean King of the T. Eaton Co. of Toronto. Marion Brown of Victoria General Hospital in Halifax was named president-elect.

Mabel Patrick, retiring this year as dean of home economics at the University of Alberta, was elected honorary president. Other provincial directors are: Manitoba, Mrs. Adele Lytle, Winnipeg; Saskatchewan, Charlotte Paxton, Saskatoon; Alberta, Helen Jacobson, Calgary.

OF PERSONAL INTEREST

Receives Names at Cathedral

James Hewitt were the names given to the year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. R. H. Peach, 1045 Pendergast street, when he was christened, Sunday, at the morning service by Dean Brian Whitlow. The baby is grandson of Mr. and Mrs. George E. Peach, Winnipeg, and Mr. E. H. Beard, Vancouver. Godparents are Mr. William Kennedy, Alberni, Mr. Stephen Hives and Miss Echo Lidster, Victoria. Following the ceremony, afternoon tea was served at the home of the baby's parents. Guests included Rev. and Mrs. George Lang, Mr. and Mrs. Bruce Cartwright, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Neargarth, Mrs. Ronald Orton, Mrs. Helen F. Lidster and Miss Echo Lidster.

Visitors From Ottawa

Mr. and Mrs. H. W. Sparks, 2081 Windsor road, have as their house guests Mr. Sparks' brother and sister-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. John Sparks of Ottawa, who will visit in Victoria until next week.

From Vancouver

Guests this week of Mr. and Mrs. T. G. Roberts, 1321 St. David Street, are their son-in-law and daughter, Lieut. and Mrs. D. R. Learoyd of Vancouver.

Going Overseas

Miss Nessie Wallace, 2538 Beach Drive, accompanied by her niece, Miss Lindsay Agnew, and her nephew, Mr. Malcolm Hamilton, 2515 Beach Drive, left Wednesday by plane for Scotland, where they will spend the summer months. After visiting relatives in Scotland, they will meet Mr. and Mrs. Alex McKeachie of Victoria in London, and will travel with them to France.

TODAY'S RECIPE

PRUNES IN PINEAPPLE JUICE

One and one-half cups prunes, 1 cup water, 1 cup pineapple juice, ¼ cup sugar, few grains salt. Rinse prunes. Add water and pineapple juice, cover and simmer about 45 minutes or until tender. Add sugar and salt for last five minutes of cooking. For best flavor, allow prunes to stand in cooking liquid 24 hours before serving.

Attractive ash trays I noticed reflect the modern trend in furnishings and china. Long, curving lines are featured in the small ash trays that are sparkled with simple but very appealing designs. Larger ones are $2.25, and smaller ones, $1.50 and $1.

Mammoth beer glasses with "I Bet You Can't" written on the side may appeal to you of sporting blood. I have never seen such a large glass, and you will be excused if you prefer to use it as a vase. This tall V-shaped glass is $14, and a slightly smaller one, still amazingly outsized, is $7.95. A wine goblet that would easily hold a whole bottle, is $7.95, and a smaller one $2.75. Brandy glasses, still too big, are $6.95, and an out-of-proportion beer mug is $3.95. They bear a strong resemblance to punch bowls, and could probably be used as just that for small parties. Each has the wagger written on the side.

If you prefer a beverage that is just the right temperature, no warmer, no cooler, then the beverage thermometer on sale in town is for you. Stir the drink until the mercury reaches a green spot marked "go." Each costs 85 cents.

If you'd like to know where to find the items mentioned in the Penny Saver column, call me at 2-3131.

TEA FOR BENEVOLENT FUND

Mrs. H. Kerr, left, president of the Companions of the Independent Order of Foresters, Court Victoria, and Mrs. W. H. Butler, general convener, have been working with a committee arranging plans for a strawberry tea in the Douglas Room at Hudson's Bay Company store on Saturday from 2 to 4.30 p.m. Proceeds are for the benevolent fund of the order. Tickets may be obtained at the door or from members.

In Honor of the Bride

Miss Terry Castle was guest of honor last evening when Miss Elm Jackson, Cook street, entertained. Gifts of kitchen items were made to Miss Castle. Miss Diane Elworthy, Vancouver, who was a guest of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Harold Elworthy, last weekend, was hostess at a luncheon in Miss Castle's honor in the private dining room at the Union Club. Twenty guests were present.

Miss Gloria Bennett and Miss Darlyne Robertson were co-hostesses at the former's home, 410 Langford Street, at a surprise miscellaneous shower honoring July bride-elect Miss Joan Hansen. Gifts were concealed in a decorated wishing well and presented to the bride-elect by Miss Lynda Bennett. Miss Hansen was presented with a gardenia corsage and her mother, Mrs. E. V. Hansen, and mother of the groom-elect, Mrs. A. R. Shields, received corsages of carnations in white and pink, respectively. A cake inscribed "Showers of Happiness, Jack and Joan," centred the refreshment table. Guests were Mrs. C. H. Bennett, Mrs. L. E. Cutt, Mrs. Newell, Mrs. E. Ash, Mrs. A. King, Mrs. L. Bond, Mrs. P. Ash, Mrs. R. Bennett, Mrs. E. Chapman, Mrs. J. Hartford, Mrs. S. Mitchell, Mrs. G. Cornelius, Mrs. J. Jones and Misses Jean Wicks, Betty Cutt, Veronica Chapman, Betty Heinesen, Helen Cornelius, Shirley Cornelius, Ann Sprinkling and June Bennett.

WHY GROW OLD?

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

There are some important facts which men and women should know about their feet. Few people realize that there are 23 diseases that show symptoms on the feet. Sometimes these foot symptoms are the first to appear.

For instance, swelling of the feet and ankles may come simply from hot weather, poorly fitted shoes, sitting on long trips or standing for long periods of time. On the other hand this can be evidence of diseases such as cirrhosis of the liver, heart or kidney disease, pernicious anemia, and many other serious conditions.

Lesions may come from purely local irritation but may be evidence of systemic disorders. Abnormal redness may be due to chilblains or local irritation but can come from more serious trouble. Pain in the foot, ankle or leg may be the result of faulty posture, improper shoes, a weak arch, a fracture or a sprain, but tuberculosis and arthritis also can cause them.

Pains and cramps can be due to deficiencies in nutrition, weak feet and poor posture, but may result from more serious conditions.

In the case of the diabetic, foot care is of the greatest importance. Weekly inspection of the feet is a "must." Many physicians advise their patients to have their feet checked once a month by a podiatrist or chiropodist.

I do not want this column to frighten you because usually the foot conditions mentioned are harmless except for discomfort. However, it is true that those who specialize in the treatment of feet sometimes see these conditions before the physician who may not have examined the feet.

For foot health remember the following things:

When standing or walking keep your feet in a parallel line, toes pointing forward. When you turn your toes outward you place a strain on your arches.

Weak feet often result from this practice. The body weight should fall more on the outside of the feet than on the inside.

The following exercise is a good one: Walk about the room with your weight on the outside borders of your feet. Lift your arches and turn your toes in, grasping the floor with your toes.

Bathe your feet daily. After this use powder on them. Be sure that your stockings are long enough and your shoes long and wide enough. Do not wear shoes without stockings for long at a time.

If you would like to have my exercises for the feet send a stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request for leaflet No. 14 to Josephine Lowman in care of this newspaper.

INFANT KILLED IN HAPPY VALLEY

A 17-month-old infant girl was killed this morning in an accident in the Happy Valley area involving a motor vehicle.

The accident took place about 10 a.m. RCMP from the Belmont detachment who are investigating believe it occurred in a driveway off Latoria Road.

The dead child is Rae Greenhough, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. B. Greenhough.

She was rushed to St. Joseph's Hospital by private car and pronounced dead on arrival.

Police investigation was hampered because they were not notified until the vehicle believed to have been involved had been moved. It is thought the driver was unaware the child had been struck.

Insurance Chief Hits 'Small Loanings'

OTTAWA (CP)—K. R. MacGregor, federal superintendent of insurance, said today evidence is mounting that Canadians borrowing from small loan companies are getting deeper into debt rather than obtaining solvency through loans.

He made the statement to the Commons banking committee which is giving detailed consideration to government legislation setting a sliding scale of interest rates on small loans, eliminating the present two per cent monthly rate.

Hoad, Larsen Advance at Wimbledon

WIMBLEDON, England (AP)—Top-seeded Lew Hoad of Australia and Art Larsen, San Leandro, Calif., breezed into the fourth round of the Wimbledon men's singles tennis championships today.

Hoad easily disposed of John Flieitz of Long Beach, Calif., 6-3, 6-2, 6-0. Larsen, American champion in 1950, quickly knocked out Jackie Brichant, Belgian Davis Cup player, 6-3, 6-3, 6-1.

Second-seeded Ken Rosewall of Australia had trouble handling Orlando Sirola's big first service but finally managed to wear down the giant Italian Davis Cupper in three straight sets, 7-5, 6-4, 9-7, to go into the fourth round.

100 Million Deaths in War, Forecast

WASHINGTON (AP)—The army calculates that "several hundred million" deaths would result from radioactivity if the United States ever launched a full-scale nuclear assault on the Communist world. It says casualties would extend to friendly areas outside the Red zone.

LT. Gen. James M. Gavin, chief of army research and development, gave the estimate to the Senate sub-committee investigating air power.

Canada Can Purchase All Gas—Howe

OTTAWA (CP)—Trade Minister Howe told the Commons today enough domestic orders have been received to pay for the trans-Canada natural gas pipeline without exporting any.

He replied to a question by Rev. Ian McIvor (L., Fort William) who asked for comment on a similar statement made Wednesday in Murray Bay, Que., by A. T. Craig, vice-president of Trans-Canada Pipe Lines Ltd.

Canada May Have New Anti-Sub Arm

OTTAWA (CP)—The Canadian navy is believed to possess a new secret anti-submarine weapon developed by the United States navy.

All the navy itself would say today was that it works in continuous and close contact with the U.S. navy. Other officials added, however, that it can be assumed that the Canadian navy has the new U.S. weapon or complete information on it.

WARSAW (Reuters)—Shots were fired when Polish rioters gathered outside police headquarters in the city of Poznan today and tanks were called into the city streets, it was reported here.

The crowd of rioters attacked the headquarters of the Polish United Workers (Communist) party, set fire to a prison, overturned street cars and pulled down a Russian flag, reliable sources said.

Eyewitnesses returning from the city said they heard shots and saw columns of marching demonstrators in the streets. They also saw tanks in the streets and moving into the city.

The Associated Press reported from Berlin that according to the newspaper Telegram a general strike hit the Polish city as thousands of workers demonstrated against low wages.

3 Plucked From Sea After Pilot's Tip

VANCOUVER (CP)—Two men clung for four hours to their overturned fishboat near Active Pass today before they were rescued by an RCAF amphibian plane. Just as they were saved, the 46-foot boat sank under them.

A third man managed to get into a tiny dinghy, without oars, when the I'm Alone III overturned in Georgia Strait, 40 miles southwest of here. He was picked up by the tug River Ace.

Those rescued were Norman Ryall, 43, owner of the I'm Alone III, Ron R. Innas, and engineer Stewart Doig.

Capt. Ryall said the feat was "fantastic — like something right out of a story book."

His teeth had just stopped chattering from the four-hour ordeal of clinging to the rudder of his overturned fishboat off Galiano Island.

"Almost the same second the rescue plane hit the water, our boat reared up in the air and sank."

"We had thought it wouldn't even be able to land, because the sea was so rough. There was an eight-foot swell running, and the wind was about 25 miles an hour."

"The boat capsized about 4 a.m. I can't tell you why, but it wasn't the weather that caused it. Ron Innas and I and Stewart Doig grabbed hold of the rudder and propeller as she turned, and figured there was enough air trapped inside to keep us floating till help came."

"The skiff was thrown clear, upside down with no oars."

TERRIFIC STRUGGLE
"Doig swam about 70 feet to it, then had a terrific struggle to get it right way up. But the wind was carrying him farther away all the time. He was picked up by a tugboat."

"Our boat had tanks full of salt water in her, carrying a catch of crabs worth about $3,000. They've all gone back where they came from now."

"She was a little down by the bow, but we felt she would float as long as we could hang on. Then a TCA airliner spotted us. They did a swell job, circling around for an hour until a rescue plane could reach us."

"But as the rescue plane came near, the angle of our boat changed. And just as it touched down, she lifted straight up, and slid down."

"Another 10 minutes or so and the end of the story might have been much different. I can't praise those people too much, the crew that spotted us, and the one that took us out."

Mr. Innas said he had flown with the RCAF and "just didn't think a plane could land in a sea that rough. I was certainly glad they could, though."

SPOTTED FROM AIR
The trio probably owe their lives to the alertness of Trans-Canada Air Lines pilot Captain E. L. Buchanan who spotted Ryall and Innas clinging to the overturned boat while on a dawn flight from Victoria to Vancouver.

Capt. Buchanan radioed news of the fishermen's plight a few minutes after the boat put out a distress call. It was bound from Tofino to Vancouver with a load of crab.

The River Ace was diverted to the scene and picked up Doig.

Before the tug could reach the overturned fishboat, an RCAF amphibian plane arrived.

Smoking—Cancer Link Probed By Ottawa

By VICTOR J. MACKIE
Times Ottawa Correspondent

OTTAWA—A mass survey of Canadians in an attempt to ascertain what relation, if any, there is between smoking and lung cancer, has been undertaken by the department of national health.

The smoking habits of the people of this country are only a part of the study.

In its novel experiment in the study of disease the department is asking a large number of Canadians where and how they have been living over the past 20 years and something about their personal habits, officials of the department announced today.

A trial run was conducted earlier this year. The questionnaire was sent to some 5,000 persons. The department was encouraged by the good response, some 3,000 questionnaires being returned.

This confirmed the department's decision to proceed with the large-scale mailing program to some 175,000 Canadians. Approximately 100,000 questionnaires are being returned.

Both Mayor Hume and Mayor Scurrah said they would ask Canada's Secretary of State to forward the invitations.

"If he comes to Vancouver we certainly want Her Majesty to also visit Victoria," said Mayor Scurrah.

COUNCIL SPLIT

By-Election Bid Made in Saanich

(See Also Page 15.)

A unique plan of taking to Saanich voters the controversial question of appointing a new municipal administrator was proposed today by Councillor J. Ronald Grant.

Coun. Grant, who favors the move, offered to resign his council seat if one of the opponents of the plan would do the same.

They would then find a third candidate who favors the scheme and the three candidates would stand in a by-election for the two seats.

If Coun. Grant and the new man were elected it would give the proponents a council majority, instead of a minority as was disclosed in a 4-3 council vote Wednesday night.

If Coun. Grant and the candidate put up by the opposing faction were re-elected, the situation would remain as it is now with the administrator's appointment rejected.

"I'll put my weight behind a candidate prepared to back appointment of a municipal administrator," Coun. Grant said, "and let the people decide."

"We have found it increasing."

Her opponent will be Miss Colleen Smith of Vancouver, who edged Mrs. H. G. Mearns of Victoria, 2 and 1.

It is the first appearance in the final for both golfers.

Mrs. Lawson never lost a hole in her conquest of Mrs. Paterson.

She won the second, third and fourth to take an early lead, increased her margin to five up at the turn, and halved all remaining holes but the 12th, which she won, to close out the match on the 13th green.

Miss Smith always led against Mrs. Mearns, who made a gallant bid to snatch victory from defeat on the final holes.

Five down at the 12th hole, Mrs. Mearns won the 13th, halved the 14th and then dunked long putts on both the 15th and 16th to keep the match alive.

Time and luck ran out for Mrs. Mearns on the 17th when she narrowly failed to sink another long putt that would have sent the match to the 18th.

Steelmen Banking Furnaces

NEW YORK (UP)—The chance of averting a nationwide steel strike appeared so slim today that the industry began a shutdown that will cost 1,000,000 tons production even if there is no walkout Saturday night.

Negotiations between top union and industry representatives all but collapsed Wednesday night and each side accused the other of forcing a crisis upon the nation. Both sides rejected proposals for postponing the strike.

Ladies' Golf Final Inter-City Affair

It will be an intercity final for the British Columbia ladies' golf championship at Gorge Vale club Friday.

Joan Lawson of Uplands today defeated Beryl Paterson of Gorge Vale, 6 and 5, to gain the 36-hole final.

Her opponent will be Miss Colleen Smith of Vancouver, who edged Mrs. H. G. Mearns of Victoria, 2 and 1.

The Hovel By the Sea

THE older I grow, the more I am impressed by the extraordinary wisdom of some of the stories which, as children, we read as simple fairy tales.

Just recently, for instance, I've been reading "The Fisherman and His Wife" in a battered, crimson-covered copy of the fairy tales collected by the Brothers Grimm.

You may remember it. It begins: "Once there was a fisherman who lived with his wife in a hovel close to the sea."

One day, the fisherman caught a flounder who turned out to be an enchanted prince. Moved by the flounder's pleading, he put the fish back into the shining water, and it sank to the bottom, leaving a streak of blood behind it.

When he told his wife what he had done, she was angry with him, and said that he should have wished for something that the enchanted prince would have granted.

She sent him back to wish for a nice clean cottage.

Obediently, he went back, and found the sea no longer bright and shining, but dull and green. However, he stood by it and called "Flounder, flounder, in the sea."

Prythee harken unto me. My wife, I beseech, must have her own will And send me to beg a boon of thee."

The wish for the cottage was granted and for a while all went well.

Then the wife was no longer content. She wanted a big stone castle. Again her husband returned to the sea, which was no longer green but dark violet and grey.

However, the wish for the castle was granted, and the wife was content until she got the notion that she'd like to be king.

This time, the sea was dark, grey, and rough and evil-smelling.

But the wife became king. Then she wanted to be Emperor.

After that, she wanted to be Pope.

Finally, she demanded that the flounder should make her Lord of the Universe.

Her husband, who had protested at the growing enormity of her wishes, told her this was impossible. But, woman-like, she persisted.

ed and with reluctance he went back to the sea once more.

This time, such a storm was raging that he could barely keep his feet. Houses and trees quivered and swayed, and mountains trembled, and rocks rolled into the sea. The sky was pitchy black. It thundered and lightened, and the sea rose in black waves mountains high and crested with white foam.

Into the howling storm, the fisherman shrieked the too-familiar words "Flounder, flounder in the sea—"

"Now what does she want?" asked the flounder.

"Alas," he said, "she wants to be Lord of the Universe."

"Now she must go back to her old hovel," said the flounder, "and there she is!"

And I wish I could rid myself of the thought that, in this atomic age, we, too, are asking to be Lords of the Universe.

When I read what the world's top scientists and geneticists have recently been saying about the dangers of nuclear radiation resulting from even the peaceful uses of atomic power, I have a horrid feeling that we are playing about with vast natural forces of which we are still largely ignorant, and which could eventually destroy our descendants.

I have a feeling that if we go blindly forward, we'll not end up as Lords of the Universe.

We'll end up in the old hovel by the sea. Or maybe not even there.

(And if this seems to you the ramblings of a semi-educated housewife, may I suggest that you read N. J. Berrill's "Man's Emerging Mind"? Especially the chapter called "Atoms and Genes.")

You might also read what British and American scientists have been saying lately. And, for comfort, you might remember that the UN Secretary-General Dag Hammarskjöld has announced the appointment of three scientific secretaries to study and assemble material on atomic radiation. I for one am waiting with intense interest to see what they will report to the UN Scientific Committee.

For this is no longer a matter for single nations.

It's a matter that affects the whole of mankind.

Market, Price Policy Demanded By Farmers

OTTAWA (BUP)—The Inter-provincial Farm Union Council asked the Federal government today to convene an agricultural marketing conference as one of the first steps in solving farm problems.

It also asked for a royal commission to investigate all aspects of grain handling.

The recommendations were contained in an 18-page brief presented to the Commons standing committee on agriculture and colonization.

"It is positively inhuman to allow an industry to suffocate in the abundance of production," the brief said. "Therefore, a well-planned orderly marketing and pricing policy will contribute to the future of farm families for generations to come."

The brief warned that a continued farm recession could end up in a major economic depression.

Blanched Celery Best; How to Do It

Although non-blanching celery is finding favor among gardeners, many consider its flavor not to be compared with the older types which require blanching.

There are two main ways of achieving the long white stalks. One is by using soil, and the other is with paper collars or sleeves, tied around each plant. If your soil is heavy, the latter are best, otherwise you are in for a lot of work.

Before placing the collars, go along the rows removing all sucker growths, or side shoots, from the plants; also any decayed foliage. Then make a single tie around each plant to retain the stalks while the collars are put in place.

Sheets of heavy brown wrapping paper, or a light corrugated cardboard, are cut into strips four or five inches wide. These are wrapped around the stalks and firmly tied with heavy string. Additional collars are used as the plants grow.

A light soil makes it possible to draw the soil around the plants with a hoe, a little at first after holding the stems together with a light tie. As the plants progress, more soil is drawn up until the plants stand in ridged soil with just the leaves protruding.

Never apply collars or mound the soil when the stems and foliage are wet.

LONDON LETTER

By WALLACE REYBURN

Fountains Close Early

LONDON—One of England's big lacks is the corner drug store and its soda fountain. As if things weren't bad enough when it comes to trying to get a cup of coffee and a sandwich or a chocolate bar or a package of cigarettes in the evening in this 'country, the Home Office is trying to push through a regulation that sweetshops must close at 7 p.m. instead of the 9.30 p.m. that it is now permissible for them to stay open until.

Not that many sweetshops (where you can buy candies, ice cream and cigarettes) do avail themselves of the opportunity to stay in business each day until 9.30. It is a constant irritant to all Canadians and Americans in this country and to many local citizens that after 6 o'clock, when all the general shops close, you have the devil's own time finding a place where you can purchase what is readily available in a North American drug store—from a cup of coffee to a magazine.

In downtown London you can have an after-movie snack—at clip-joint prices in one of the night clubs. But in the suburbs, when you come out of an evening movie you emerge onto streets on which every store and cafe is closed up tight. If you happen to live in an area where the pubs stay open to 11 p.m., instead of 10.30, which is more usual, you can get a quick few drinks before going home. But that's all.

I'm not a young man any more, but I often wonder, as I see young couples coming out of an English cinema, what courting days are like for them here. The facilities certainly seem limited. In Canada after he's taken his girl to the movies they can drop into a drug store or a cafe for a soda or a cup of coffee and he can further press his suit in the pleasant atmosphere of a restaurant cubicle. Here it is a dash to catch the last bus, which is likely to be around 11 p.m., and home.

In this country it is not so much that cafes and the equivalent of drug stores are not prepared to give service in the evenings. It is the Catering and Wages Act which lays down rigid rules as to how long employees preparing and serving food and drinks shall work each day and what minimum wages they must be paid.

In the welfare state there is an assurance that people in catering aren't overworked and underpaid, but it means that the public is faced with the limited choice of going to a pub or having its evening snacks at home.

Eden Faces New Revolt Over Cyprus Policies

LONDON (UP)—A Conservative party revolt over Prime Minister Anthony Eden's Cyprus policies threatened the Eden government today in the midst of the Commonwealth prime ministers' conference.

The revolt was led by the same Empire-minded Conservatives who fought British withdrawal from the Suez Canal zone base.

They were pacified only when Eden promised that Britain would hold firm elsewhere; now they complain Eden is "selling out" in Cyprus.

Capt. Charles Waterhouse, a Conservative member of parliament who led the "1922 committee" in the Suez revolt, called a protest meeting Wednesday night to try to head off any plans to give up the big Mediterranean island base.

A total of 56 "back benchers"—normally solid supporters of the government leaders but who take an inactive role in the House of Commons—attended the meeting. This would be enough to topple Eden if they voted with the Labor party on the Cyprus issue.

A significant development was the presence, by invitation of the rebels, of Edward Heath, chief government whip in the House. He listened in silence to one and one-half hours of stormy protest against the Eden plan for Cyprus political development. The invitation to Heath was a declaration the rebels mean business.

They said the crowd converged on the main square of Poznan, where a big international fair is being held. They attacked other buildings beside the prison.

The shooting occurred about noon when the rioters had reached police headquarters. Tanks moved into the main square shortly afterward.

Thousands of foreign visitors are in the western Polish city at present for the fair, largest of its kind in Eastern Europe after Leipzig.

There has so far been no official announcement by the Polish government.

Unofficial Polish sources said there had been rioting and that it arose from a misunderstanding between teams of workmen and the management of a factory over living conditions and wages.

The plane in which British ambassador Sir Andrew Noble was flying to Poznan for a second visit to the 20 British firms exhibiting at the fair was turned back to Warsaw. No explanation was given.

WITNESS TELLS STORY

A British businessman who was in Poznan today told Reuters tonight: "We saw crowds of workers, apparently steelworkers, in overalls marching in an orderly manner through the streets."

"They carried in front of them a large Polish flag. They had placards too. They were chanting something. I was told it was 'We want bread.'"

"The demonstration appeared to be organized because most of the shops were closed with their shutters down and all the trams (street cars) had stopped and their drivers had left them."

Chou Urges Nationalists To Return to Red China

PEIPING (Reuters) — Chou Enlai, Chinese Communist premier, today offered to discuss with the Formosa Nationalist authorities "steps and conditions for the peaceful liberation" of the island.

The Chinese Communist premier was reviewing the world situation in a speech to the National Peoples Congress.

He touched on colonialism, the Cold War, United States policy and relations between East and West.

Chou said his government repeatedly had pointed out there were two possible ways for the Chinese people to "liberate" Formosa—by war or by peaceful means—and that the Chinese people would seek to use peaceful means as far as possible.

Turning to the international situation, Chou said the cold war had become increasingly unpopular in the last year. Great progress had been made in increasing understanding between countries.

"Although the United States is still unwilling to abandon its cold war policy, the great majority of nations believe that peaceful co-existence is not only necessary but possible," he said.

An equally deadpan RAF wing commander, B. D. Sellick, emerged from the cockpit and announced, "either the batteries have gone flat (dead) or there is a fault in the wiring system."

The hundred Russian officials gathered to watch the demonstration.

The two men were flown to Sea Island, given an examination at the medical centre there and taken to their homes in an Air Force ambulance.

They suffered no ill effects from their prolonged stay in the cold water.
